

Nazis are Cold To British Plan To Provide Aid For Reich Jews

Move to Continue Campaign Through Winter Months

GOEBBELS HEAD

London Hears German Envoy May Be Called To Berlin

Berlin —(AP)—The German press recorded Nazi feeling against settlement of German Jews in British Tanganyika, former German East Africa, today as plans developed for continuing the anti-Jewish campaign through the winter.

The continued campaign, although mass arrests have been stopped, centers about propaganda Minister Goebbels.

He is to address 1,000 of his colleagues at the Kroll opera house tonight on how to conduct an anti-Jewish drive, and the newspaper Zwölf Uhr Blatt said 1,500 meetings were planned for Berlin alone this winter.

The subjects will be, the newspaper said, "Eternal Jew Disturbs Peace of the World" and "One People—One Will—One Aim." The Nazi film "Jewry Without the Mask" will be shown at all meetings.

Authoritative quarters said a strict ban on all Jewish religious services except marriage and burial rites was the latest restriction, one which aroused much bitterness.

No Official Reply

The absence of official reaction to the British plan for settlement of Jews in Tanganyika, other parts of British Africa and Guiana was seen as a studied effort while the Nazis await the outcome of Prime Minister Chamberlain's visit to Paris where he is to discuss defense and foreign policies with Premier Daladier.

The friendly attitude toward England that prevailed after the Munich accord has changed considerably since the Jewish drive began Nov. 10.

Further evidence that Jews are being squeezed out of every form of public life appeared with a government order forbidding bookmakers to accept bets from Jews. Jews also were forbidden to frequent the premises of bookmakers, all of whom are government licensed.

May Call Reichstag

Dienst aus Deutschland reported a decree would soon be issued whereby gentiles and Jews no longer would be permitted to live in the same apartment building.

There was talk that Chancellor Hitler would summon the reichstag to protest against the proposed allotment of former German territory to Jews.

Jews themselves acclaimed the proposal but feared the inclusion of Tanganyika among proposed havens might react against them.

Oswald Pirow, defense minister of the Union of South Africa, who is scheduled to see Hitler at Berchtesgaden Thursday on the colonial question, was expected to be the first foreigner to hear the reichsfuehrer's reaction to the proposal.

MAY CALL ENVOY HOME
London —(AP)—Reports that Germany was considering calling her ambassador home for consultations on the deterioration of relations with Britain since the Nazi anti-Jewish drive were published here today.

A German embassy spokesman, however, declared there was no question of the ambassador, Herbert von Dirksen, leaving London now, and in Berlin officials denied that the envoy would be recalled.

Resentment was apparent among Nazis, however, at a parliamentary motion deploring treatment of "certain racial, religious and political minorities in Europe," and a proposal that Tanganyika, former German East Africa, be one refuge for German Jews.

The house of commons unanimously adopted the motion last night. It suggested "an immediate concerted effort amongst the nations, including the United States, to secure a common policy," and

Temporary Writ in Indiana Prevents Recount in Race

Willis Barred From Seeking New Tally in Senate Battle

Indianapolis —(AP)—The state supreme court today recalled a temporary writ of prohibition against recounts of the senate vote in seven counties to change the return date to Dec. 1, instead of Dec. 5.

After making this change, which paves the way for an earlier decision on whether the order should be made permanent, the writ was re-issued.

Indianapolis —(AP)—The Indiana Supreme Court granted a temporary writ of prohibition today that will bar for the time being recounts sought in seven counties by Raymond E. Willis, Republican candidate for United States senator who was defeated in the Nov. 8 election by the incumbent Democrat, Senator Frederick Van Nuys.

The court set Dec. 5 at 10 a. m. for a hearing on the question of whether the temporary writ should be made permanent.

The temporary writ was granted by three judges who heard arguments yesterday on the petition of Senator Van Nuys who asked that the recounts be prevented. The senator contended the United States senate is the final judge of its membership and that the 1921 state law under which the recounts were sought is unconstitutional.

Attorneys for both Senator Van Nuys and Willis are expected to submit briefs to the court prior to the Dec. 5 hearing.

The supreme court's action does not apply to contests for minor state offices.

Added Indictment In Buckman Case

Conspiracy to Violate Federal Perjury Statute Is Alleged

Milwaukee —(AP)—W. McNeil Kennedy, assistant administrator of the securities and exchange commission, announced yesterday that an additional indictment against E. E. Buckman and Company officials, Attorney Perry A. Stettland of Madison, and R. W. Jackson of Illinois, had been returned at Chicago.

Kennedy said the true bill charges Buckman, Vice President Louis C. George, and the others, with conspiracy to violate the federal perjury statute.

Testimony was given falsely at a hearing of the SEC, it was charged, regarding the connection between the R. W. Jackson company, operating in southern Illinois, and the Buckman company.

The government charged that the Illinois firm actually was a subsidiary of the Buckman concern.

The defendants were accused of meeting prior to the SEC hearing and conspiring to give false testimony.

Kennedy said an indictment also was returned yesterday charging Jackson with giving perjured testimony.

Three indictments previously had been returned against Buckman, George and Stettland.

Buckman and George serving state prison terms on charges of violating the state securities laws.

PLANS ACTIONS

Washington —(AP)—Administrator Elmer F. Andrews said today the wage-hour administration soon would start prosecuting violators of the fair labor standards act.

Announcing at a press conference that he received about 1,200 complaints alleging violations, Andrews said:

"We think it is time to consider very seriously taking some cases to the courts and starting prosecutions. We will pick out some appropriate places throughout the country—New York city for example. But we don't think it would be fair not to select some other cities too."

"We will pick out first the cases where employers say they'll be damned if they'll comply with the act."

Commission Men Clear Livestock Pens in Chicago

All Animals Must be Out This Afternoon Under Agreement

Chicago —(AP)—Striking stock handlers watched white-collared commission men take over their jobs today in the sprawling Chicago stockyards.

The CIO handlers' strike not only halted trading in livestock but also posed the problem of caring for more than 50,000 head of cattle, sheep and hogs in the pens.

Commission men ordinarily engaged in buying and selling undertook to feed, water and drive the stranded livestock to the packing houses.

Under an agreement between the packing house workers union and the Chicago Livestock exchange all animals must be cleared from pens by 5 p. m. today. The exchange said it would accept no additional shipments until the dispute is settled.

Halt Shipments
Middle west livestock shippers were notified yesterday to halt shipments but an estimated 25,000 head of livestock were already en route to the yards. After today shippers will send livestock at their own risk, the exchange said.

The CIO unionists, who won collective bargaining rights for approximately 700 handlers in a labor election nine months ago, struck yesterday. They demanded a 40-hour week, with time and a half for overtime, a basic wage of 62 cents an hour, vacations with pay and a written contract.

The strike was directed at the Stock Yard and Transit company. Union leaders charged the dispute was a lockout because the company had refused to bargain in good faith. O. T. Henkle, general manager of the company, denied the contention and said negotiations had proceeded for some time.

Drought Sends Jungle Snakes to Ceylon Area

Colombo, Ceylon —(AP)—Venomous jungle snakes invaded southern Ceylon communities in search of water today as a widespread drought caused threats of famine in other areas. Acute distress was reported in various parts of Ceylon.

Little Hope for Early Peace Between Major Labor Groups Unless Government Finds Way

Washington —(AP)—The outlook for peace in the organized labor movement, although espoused by the rival factions and urged by President Roosevelt, appeared increasingly uncertain today unless government officials can discover a basis for unity.

The recent conventions of the American Federation of Labor and the new Congress of Industrial Organizations produced expressions of hope for a unified labor movement. No overtures were offered, however, toward reopening the peace conferences which collapsed last December.

In responsible government and labor quarters, there were persistent reports of quiet efforts to moderate the views of the opposing CIO and A. F. of L. leaders and bring both factions together for a possible White House conference.

Says Officials Had Enrolled in Liberties Body

Union Termed Communist 'Front' Organization at Hearings

Washington —(AP)—Alice Lee Jimison, a Seneca Indian, told house investigators today that Secretary Ickes, Indian Commissioner John Collier and several officials of the Indian bureau were members of the civil liberties union or had expressed a belief in its principles.

Chairman Dies (D-Texas) of the committee investigating un-American activities said numerous witnesses had described the union as a communist "front" organization.

Miss Jimison, who said she was Washington representative for the president of the American Indian Federation, and organization of about 3,500 Indians or persons who have inter-married with Indians, said that legislation recommended by the Civil Liberties union had been approved by congress.

One bill, she said, was the Wheeler-Howard Indian reorganization act of 1934, which she said was prepared by Nathan Margold, interior department solicitor, and Collier. She said Roger Baldwin, head of the Civil Liberties union, had told another congressional committee that the organization upheld the rights of aliens to advocate murder, assassination and the overthrow of the government by force and violence.

Introduced at Meeting
Secretary Ickes, Miss Jimison asserted, was introduced once at a Civil Liberties union meeting as a charter member of the organization. She said Collier had informed a house committee in 1935 that he deeply admired Baldwin, considered the union a useful and effective organization and was sorry if he had not contributed money to it.

Earlier in the day's committee session, Chairman Dies displayed a clipping which he said quoted Aubrey Williams, deputy WPA administrator, as saying he was "not sure that class warfare is not all right." Dies commented:

"A most amazing statement coming from a government official in a high place."

Birmingham, Ala. —(AP)—Aubrey Williams, deputy WPA administrator, said today he did not "in any sense advocate class warfare" in an address last night before the Southern Conference for Human Welfare.

Williams, who spoke extemporaneously, said "in many cases it has not been possible to avoid class conflict in the past, and it is unlikely that we will have such conflict in the future. But I did not intimate that I approved of class warfare in the least."

Japanese Answer to Note Unsatisfactory, Secretary Hull Says

Washington —(AP)—Secretary Hull declared today Japan's reply to his note of Oct. 6 was unsatisfactory.

Hull's note had asserted that Japan was violating American rights in China in an extensive series of monopolies, trade restrictions, currency changes and tariff alterations. The secretary of state said the Japanese reply received this week was not responsive to the position of this government as set forth in his note of Oct. 6 and to the general position which this country has taken throughout its history with regard to American rights and interests not only in relations with China but also in relations with all countries.

Hull added that he preferred not to comment further until the state department had more time to study the substance and implications of the Japanese note.

Promises Inquiry in Mississippi Lynching

Wiggins, Miss. —(AP)—Sheriff S. C. Hinton said today the lynching yesterday of Wilder McGowan, 24, suspect in the rape and robbery of a 74-year-old white woman, would be investigated.

The sheriff said a Negro entered the house of the woman Sunday night and attacked and robbed her. She is a member of a well-known family.

McGowan, a Gulfport fertilizer plant worker, was caught by a mob of 200 white men yesterday as he was preparing to leave in a truck for Gulfport. He was hanged to a tree.

Tuskegee institute records showed it was the year's sixth lynching in the United States. The others were: one each in Georgia, Florida and Louisiana, and two in Mississippi, one at Rolling Fork, the other at Columbus.

Phil Orders Court Action to Force Release of Funds

LaFollette's Last Minute Raid On State Treasury Almost Sure To Result in New Tax Assessment

BY JOHN W. WYNGAARD
(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau)

Madison —(AP)—They're playing a new game in the capitol today, a guessing game. It is called "guess what the state treasury balance is today."

The players are the outgoing Progressives and the incoming Republicans. Spectators aren't quite sure that they follow all the plays, but they are sure that some of the moves don't make sense.

It started, seemingly, back on Nov. 8, when the people of Wisconsin decided that they wanted Republicans to run the state government for a while, and that they wanted the Progressive managers who had been in control for four years to take a rest.

At that time the books of the state treasury showed a balance of something over $10,000,000 under ordinary circumstances a comfortable balance and one which would enable the new directors who will move in on January 2 to settle down to their tasks without worries about budget balancing.

Pay Old Bills
Last week, however, the state emergency board, a device of the retiring administration, met quietly to look over the state's fiscal situation, and decided that some old bills should be paid, and that there was enough money in the treasury to give all state departments as much money as they asked for the next six months period. The emergency board, it should be explained, is composed of the retiring governor, and the retiring chairmen of the two legislative finance committees.

They decided to pay off an old Civil War debt which has been all but forgotten in the intervening 75 years, to make up a state deficit to the teachers' retirement fund which currently has assets of more than $300,000 and whose income is considered sufficient to meet all current claims and demands, to allocate "Budget B" provisions for all state departments for the next

Cadott Hunter Shoots Wolf, Bear and Deer

Chippewa Falls —(AP)—Charles Klass, Cadott, had a big day when the deer and bear hunting season opened, it appears.

He collected a $20 bounty here yesterday on a wolf. When someone commented on his good shoot, Klass declared he "got the bear better."

"Oh, so you got a bear, too," the bystander said. "Funny that you missed up on a deer."

"I didn't," said Klass—backing up his statements with his trophies—a 300-pound bear and a large buck.

More Liberal Tax Treatment Urged For U.S. Industry

Philadelphia Publisher Appears Before Senate Committee

Washington —(AP)—Walter D. Fuller, president of the Curtis Publishing company of Philadelphia, suggested to a senate committee today that one way "to get the workers back to work" was to allow their employers more liberal tax treatment.

He said, specifically, that companies should be allowed to charge off more for depreciation than present tax minima permit. Industrial plant expansion would follow, he contended in testimony before the group investigating "incentive taxation," profit-sharing systems and related subjects.

Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.), a committee member, asked:

"You think then that it would be possible through incentive taxation, adequately and properly framed, to absorb a very large portion of industrial unemployment?"

Jobs Most Important
"I agree with every word you have said," Fuller replied.

"You still believe in the theory that if it is poured in the top it will trickle down to the bottom?" asked Chairman Herring (D-Iowa).

"I think the most important thing we could do would be to get the workers back to work and then put more money in their pay envelope," the witness said.

Fuller said he believed the low rates of depreciation allowed under present tax laws had been a major factor in the "delayed recovery" of the capital goods industries.

He cited the example of one company which constructed an $8,000,000 building 25 years ago and wished to replace it but found that it had been allowed to charge off only $4,000,000 to depreciation to date.

To build a new building, he said, it would be necessary for the company to take a $4,000,000 book loss in one year.

"Thus," he said, "a five or six million dollar plant is not built at a time when work and employment are badly needed."

City Granted Fund to Build Electric System

Washington —(AP)—The public works administration announced today financing of its first public power project under its new policy governing competition with existing private utilities.

Administrator Ickes announced a grant of $125,000 for Columbus, Miss., to build its own electric distribution system.

This followed negotiations in which the city offered the Mississippi Power company $239,000 for local facilities. The company held out for $336,363.

Ickes, acting under the new national power policy, reviewed the data and ruled that $239,000 would be a "fair and reasonable offer" for the private property. He ordered the grant after this second offer to purchase was refused.

Names Four Special Attorneys in Mandamus Suit

Will Push Plea

Madison —(AP)—Governor Philip LaFollette today ordered proceeding started in Dane county circuit court to compel the release of $6,620,121 which the Progressive controlled emergency board last week ordered transferred from the state's general fund.

The governor appointed four special attorneys in a mandamus action against Secretary of State Theodore Dammann and State Treasurer Solomon Levitan, who, threatened by Republicans with a suit on their official bonds, have refused to honor the board's orders.

A request for an original action to determine the validity of the transfers will be argued in circuit court Saturday at 9 a. m.

The governor appointed Harold M. Wilkie of Madison and Harold E. Stafford, Chippewa Falls, to represent the emergency board. He named James McPhee, Stanley, and Charles Hansen, Milwaukee, to represent Dammann and Levitan.

Five Weeks to Act
Governor LaFollette, who has been charged by the incoming Republican administration with an attempt to deplete the general fund before the government changes hands in January, has about five weeks in which to obtain a court ruling.

In the event no final determination has been made by then a new emergency board under Julius P. Heil, Republican governor-elect, will be in power.

Ten separate items were involved in the present board's transfer action.

Those which Dammann refused to approve and for which Levitan declined to issue checks on Dammann's orders were:

Payment of the 75-year-old Civil war debt of $1,221,000 owed to the state normal and common school funds.

Transfer of $2,703,652 to pay a debt to the state teachers' retirement fund.

Appropriation of $10,000 to the trade practice department for a food store survey.

Up to Counsel
The executive office said that special counsel will have to determine which of the various items in the total of $6,620,121 will be affected by the court action.

One transfer in question, although the secretary of state's office said it did not require approval, is $230,000 allotted to state departments in additional Budget "B" appropriations for the remainder of the current fiscal year.

Fred R. Zimmerman, Milwaukee, Republican secretary of state-elect, charged the transfers were made illegally and declared he would hold Dammann and Levitan responsible on their bonds if the payments were made.

Governor LaFollette asserted today that every one of the transfers ordered by the board was made under specific provision of the budget bill adopted by the 1937 legislature, which gave the board broad discretionary powers.

Racine Man Held on Counterfeit Charge

Milwaukee —(AP)—Robert H. Bishop, 25, of Racine, was bound over to the federal grand jury yesterday on a charge of possession and manufacture of counterfeit quarters. His bond was fixed at $500 by United States commissioner Floyd Jenkins.

John Voss, agent in charge of the secret service office here, said Bishop was arrested in a Racine tavern Sunday night with 500 counterfeit coins and that molds in which the coins had been made were found in Bishop's home.

Badger State and Minnesota Offer Tests for G. O. P.

Both Have Laws More Liberal Than Some New Deal Statutes

Washington — (P) — Two of the eleven Republicans who will take over governorships soon from Democrats, Progressives or Farmer-Laborites rate special attention although presidential bees are not buzzing in their vicinity. They are: Julius P. Heil, governor-elect of Wisconsin, a 62-year-old, self-made business man, widely publicized as a man who has paternalistic social impulses toward his own employees. Harold Stassen, half Heil's age, a "young" Republican both in years and outlook, who steam-rollered remnants of party old-guardism to win his nomination, and beat what amounted to a New Deal-Farmer-Labor coalition to become governor-elect of Minnesota.

Neither has a place in the speculative lists of Republican dark-horses for 1940. Heil is ineligible by foreign birth. Stassen is too young and many political prognosticators would consider him too little known nationally.

Demonstrate Thesis

Yet these two new governors get the first chance to demonstrate the major thesis on which the Republican party has fought its election battles in recent years. That is that the New Deals, national or state, lacked administrative skill and judgment, however worthy their social or economic objectives or however desirable some of their enactments.

"Let us do it, and do it right," has been the Republican motto. Wisconsin and Minnesota voters have taken them at their word. They have confided to Heil and Stassen and their associates the administration of little New Deals that in some respects pre-date the Roosevelt national New Deal, and from which stemmed some of the inspiration and even the working models for national policy.

Provide Test

For the voters of the nation, Wisconsin and Minnesota afford an immediate laboratory test of what has happened in years of political adversity to liberalize Republican councils and leadership. The contention of Roosevelt followers that Republican protestations of liberalism are mostly political sheep's clothing to conceal conservative wolves might be quickly answered in those two states. That answer could deeply impress the nation as an answer also, or at least a significant indication, to the biggest question 1938 Republican trends have raised.

That is: What would a Republican national administration do with an inheritance of New Deal's social reforms and economic experiments if it came to power two years from now?

Any survey of the heritage of Progressive-made or Farmer-labor-made laws in Wisconsin and Minnesota which now pass to Republicans hands for administration, modification or repeal makes the special claim of the two states for national attention during the next two years crystal clear. From Wisconsin, for example, came much that was worked into the New Deal ultimates policy. The most striking evolution of that policy and of regional planning for use of national resources is the Tennessee Valley authority. Its present guiding spirit, David Lilienthal, was recruited from Wisconsin.

Labor Laws Example

A long list of Wisconsin and Minnesota laws stamped with wider extremes of Progressive or Farmer-Labor liberalism than most of the Roosevelt national enactments could be drawn up. The Heil and Stassen administrations take them over.

Among them all none is more advanced, from the liberal standpoint, than the labor laws. Wisconsin started on unemployment compensation in 1932, before the federal social security act had been more than vaguely thought of. It went into rigid anti-child labor legislation in 1933. It has an industrial relations board of wide statutory practices and take a hand in settling employer-employee disputes. It has a far-reaching code of hours, wage, workers' compensation, safety and health laws.

The same can be said of Minnesota. Its minimum wage act for women and minors goes back to 1913. It has stringent legislative gadgets to implement Farmer-Labor ideas on labor policy. It has gone as far or farther toward out-New Dealings the New Deal as its Wisconsin sister in other respects.

That is the situation that confronts Governors-elect Heil and Stassen. It makes their gubernatorial policy-making a matter of wide political interest even if neither ever rises to national political stature.

Christmas Lights Will Show Friday Afternoon

College avenue will blaze in its Christmas glory for the first time at about 5 o'clock Friday afternoon, the hour of the annual Christmas opening in Appleton.

Clark Teel, chairman of the decorating committee from the retailers, said today that the committee at a meeting yesterday authorized the purchase of two new Christmas designs to be used on the Appleton and Oneida street corners on College avenue in place of the illuminated Santa Claus faces. The designs will be Christmas scenes.

Call at Work Office Each Month, Manager Requests Applicants

Persons who have applications at the Appleton office of the Wisconsin State Employment Service should call at the office at least once a month if they are still interested in employment, F. R. Gehrke, manager, said this morning.

"If a person does not appear here at least once a month, his card goes into the inactive file and we consider him or her no longer available for work," Gehrke said. "Some times this means that a chance for employment is lost."

Gehrke also requested that people registered in the office report changes of address and phone number, pointing out that opportunities may also be forfeited if applicants for employment cannot be located.

Committee Seeks Air Mail Service For Badger Cities

Will Appeal to Authorities For New Route Over State

Wausau, Wis. — (P) — A committee whose aim is airmail service for one Minnesota and five western Wisconsin cities today began preliminary work on a united appeal to the civil aeronautics authority and post office department at Washington.

Composed of chamber of commerce representatives from nine cities, the committee hopes to have ready by Jan. 1 a convincing argument that a feeder line be operated out of Minneapolis and St. Paul to Duluth, Minn., and Superior, Wausau, Green Bay, Oshkosh, Fond du Lac and Milwaukee. The line would be supplementary to service now existing between the Twin Cities and Milwaukee. One round trip would be made daily.

Responding to a call by the Wausau Chamber of Commerce, 36 representatives of the nine interested cities met here yesterday and were cheered by statements from Croil Hunter, president, and M. B. (Mal) Freburg, superintendent of the Northwest Airlines eastern division, that they would provide the service if approval is given.

Walter G. Roehl, executive secretary of the Wausau chamber, said Wausau's airport is adequate, but that runway extensions of at least a hundred feet would be necessary at the other cities.

Named to the committee, as yet without a chairman, were George W. Wells, Jr., Duluth; C. M. Skamser, Superior; A. D. Murphy, Green Bay; J. B. Cudlitz, Oshkosh; A. Robert Neuman, Fond du Lac; Clarence J. Muth, Milwaukee; Fred Fellows, St. Paul; John H. De Wild, Minneapolis, and Paul Tobey, Wausau.

Kenneth H. Corbett, secretary of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce, said today that the chamber was not notified of the Wausau meeting and that Appleton did not have a representative there.

It is generally believed, however, that should the air mail service be established, Appleton would be included on the stops. Mail planes stopping here would also take on mail from Neenah-Menasha.

Progressives May Discuss Outlook And Unite Forces

New York — (P) — A city hall spokesman for Mayor F. H. LaGuardia said last night a series of conferences with political leaders would be held in Washington next week as the next step in his campaign to unite "the progressive forces" of the nation.

The mayor has written his views to Governor Phil LaFollette, who was defeated for re-election, and Senator Robert M. LaFollette, Jr., the Progressive party leaders of Wisconsin.

In reply to published reports here that Governor LaFollette and Senator George W. Norris (R-Nebr.) had informed the mayor it was impossible to meet him at this time, the spokesman stated the mayor had issued "no invitations to any conference" and that he had "received no refusals from any Progressives to join in an appraisal of the political situation."

Orthopedic Clinic at Racine Is Scheduled

Madison — (P) — An orthopedic clinic for children of Racine and surrounding counties will be held Saturday, Dec. 3, at the Stephen Bull school in Racine.

Director Marguerite Lison Ingram of the crippled children division of the state department of public instruction said Dr. R. E. Burns and Dr. W. H. Wicks of Madison have been invited to make the examinations between 9:30 a. m. and 3 p. m.

Mrs. W. E. Buckley, president of the auxiliary of the Racine County Medical society, is acting as chairman of the arrangements committee. A representative of the rehabilitation division, state board of vocational education, will be at the clinic to interview older boys and girls about training for employment.

Body of Woman Found in Lake

Veterans Home Resident Had Been Missing Only Two Hours

Waupaca — The body of Mrs. William H. Fiedler, 64, a resident of the Waupaca Veterans home, was found floating in Rainbow lake about 50 feet from Downing's Boat landing at 9:15 last night, two hours after her absence from the home was reported by her husband.

Dr. E. F. Hafemeister, one of a searching party organized by Colonel William Holden, commandant at the home, said the absence of water in the woman's lungs indicated she was dead before the body entered the water. A fur coat worn by the dead woman when she left the home was found a few feet from the body.

Mrs. Fiedler left the home about 5 o'clock in the afternoon and left a note for her husband saying she was going for a walk. When she had not returned at 7 o'clock, he reported her absence to Colonel Holden, who immediately organized the searching party. Mrs. Fiedler had been in poor health.

She was born Dec. 17, 1873 at Whitewater and was married to William H. Fiedler in 1899 at Milwaukee where they lived until 1928. At that time the couple moved to the Waupaca Veterans home.

Mrs. Fiedler is survived by her husband and a son, Stuart, Kenmore, N. Y.

Navy Would Train Boys As Army Does in CMTC

Washington — (P) — Rear Admiral J. O. Richardson, chief of the navy bureau of navigation, recommended today the establishment of civilian naval training similar to the army C. M. T. C.

A bill for the purpose passed the house last winter, but failed to pass the senate. It provided for training boys of high school age in enlisted men's duties, and an advanced group of college students in officers' duties.

In his annual report Admiral Richardson reiterated the plea of his predecessor, Rear Admiral Adolphus Andrews, for an early adjustment of the navy's pay schedule.

Asserting that appropriations for the current year made possible an average manpower on naval vessels of 85.3 per cent of full complement, he said the allowance was adequate for peacetime operations but not for a speedy and efficient mobilization.

American Trade With China May Show Declines

But First It Is Expected to Increase for Few Years

Washington — (P) — If American trade with China follows the pattern traced in Manchukuo, United States exporters may see their business with the Chinese increase for a few years and then go into a tailspin.

Experts here suggested today that parallel is likely to occur, with material damage to America's 1937 position as the largest seller in China and the largest buyer of Chinese goods.

At stake is a total trade of about $153,000,000.

The experts based their belief on the contention that Japan's economy, strained by an unexpectedly long war, will not be able to provide China's needs for a time.

When Japan is back on her economic feet, however, the situation will be different. The belief is general that purchases from American and other foreign commercial houses will be made only in cases where Japanese firms are unable to fill the order.

Wartime Trade

Secretary Hull told Japan last month she virtually had squeezed American business out of Manchukuo and he feared the same thing would happen in China.

Although American trade with Manchukuo was nearly four times as great in 1937 as in 1932 when Japan conquered the region, the increase again was a wartime development.

In 1932 the United States exported $4,228,000 worth of goods to Manchukuo. Immediately after her occupation, Japan, needing supplies and herself strained by the war, began large-scale importations into Manchukuo. American exports to the conquered territory rose to $7,449,000 in 1933 and to $11,504,000 in 1934.

Then, with Japan recovering from the strain of the conflict, American exports declined to $7,461,000 in 1935 and to $6,880,000 in 1936.

Again Japan involved herself in war in China and the exports from the United States soared to $13,907,000 in the first 11 months of 1937.

Union Failed to Pay Wages of Its Pickets

Pittsburgh — (P) — Because a wage claim by professional pickets went unpaid, a receiver today had authority from a county court to take over the affairs of an A. F. of L. Meat Canners Local union to settle a $1,800 judgment.

Frank P. Patterson empowered the receiver to collect dues and levy special assessments to pay the 40 pickets who were hired last summer for demonstrations at stores of a local chain.

Louis Vaira, attorney for the pickets, declared the men agreed to work for 50 cents an hour but had not been paid in full.

"The laws is plain on the point. The membership is clearly liable for such claims and we propose to see that the union does not hold itself above the law," said Vaira.

ARMY FLIER DIES OF CRASH INJURIES

Investigating Board Encounters Suspicion of Engine Trouble

LaGrange, Ga. — (P) — Second Lieutenant John Madro died at a hospital here today, the eighth army flier whose life was lost in the wreck of a new army bomber in a pine thicket near here Friday night.

Six other fliers were killed instantly in the crash and the seventh died a few hours after rescuers carried him to a hospital.

Madro, whose commission was in the air reserve, was the son of Mrs. Frank H. Rayhorn of Memphis, Tenn.

He died without regaining consciousness, on the fourth day after the crash.

An army investigating board continued a search for evidence which would yield a clue to the cause of the crash. Yesterday Major Aubrey Hornsby, engineering officer at Maxwell Field, Ala., said he encountered "some suspicion of engine trouble" but that it would be some time before the board's final findings were reached.

"Tobacco Road" Is Given Injunction to Show in Atlanta, Ga.

Atlanta — (P) — Widely-discussed "Tobacco Road," protected by a temporary injunction obtained after a local board of censors ruled it was "immoral" and should not be presented, opened before a capacity audience here last night.

Adapted from the novel by Erskine Caldwell, a native Georgian, and depicting the hopeless outlook confronting an uneducated, impoverished rural family in a section known as Tobacco Road, near Augusta, Ga., the play already is in its fifth year in New York, and has been shown in numerous other cities.

Superior Court Judge E. D. Thomas, in granting the temporary injunction yesterday to operators of the theatre in which the play is presented, set the permanent injunction hearing for Friday, but said he would grant an earlier hearing on three hours notice.

The temporary injunction restrains the city of Atlanta, the mayor and council, the city clerk and the chief of police from interfering with the play until after a hearing on the permanent injunction.

Propose Exchange Of Refugees for American Nazis

Lawrence Would Favor Plan to Make 'Trade' With Germany

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington — Since there are days when "reciprocity" is in the air, members of congress are beginning to discuss ways and means of handling the refugee problem created by a nazi Germany.

Lawrence

It now is being suggested that, since America has a limited quota available each year for the admission of immigrants, and since the quota of 27,000 is but a small fraction of the 600,000 persons who are clamoring for an opportunity to leave Germany, maybe the nazis will agree to a little reciprocity or trading.

The plan proposed is that the United States agree to exchange 27,000 or more nazis who live in America for 27,000 refugees who want to escape nazi rule. The Dies committee investigating un-American activities has found that there are somewhere near 200 organizations in America fomenting class and religious hatreds. Many of the nazis wear uniforms of the Hitler government and in their meetings conduct themselves in nazi style. Since these pro-nazi enthusiasts are so fond of the nazi form of government, it may be that they would prefer living in Germany, whereas there must be an equal number now in Germany who would be glad to acclaim the democratic form of government prevalent in our country.

American Nazis
These nazis in America are not to be confused with the overwhelming majority of American citizens of German birth and indeed German aliens who hate nazism as intensely as do democrats everywhere. But the nazis, and, to be sure, some of the Italian pro-fascists in the United States, are not interested in preserving democracy, but in making America as much like the fascist countries abroad as they can.

Disclosure that these anti-American activities are going on inside the United States naturally would not lead to deportation, for that is always a cruel hardship. But it may well be that the nazis who find themselves compelled to live in a country where Catholics, Jews and Protestants have equal rights and opportunities are so anxious to become a part of nazi Germany that they will be glad to go back to Europe.

Could Take Capital
The financing of such a huge emigration might be difficult were it not for the fact that American generosity can be relied on. The nazis or the Italian fascists who like foreign countries better than their own should be permitted to take their capital or proceeds from the sale of their businesses along with them 100 per cent, and the American government might even be persuaded to pay ocean transportation for them.

This is not what the nazi government is permitting with respect to those who are disliked by the nazi government, but then democracies are always more generous and broad-minded than the fascists. It's just one of those clumsy virtues which democratic countries prefer to possess because they do think about world opinion.

MAY BE LEADER

Leadership of Chinese territory now dominated by Japanese military forces may fall to Gen. Wu Pei-fu (above), said to have support of Kenji Doihara, a Japanese politician.

And while on the subject of American generosity, it might not be amiss to refresh the memories of many persons who either have forgotten or were too young to read the newspapers 20 years ago that the United States, immediately after the armistice, helped the German people.

Helped Germans
It was in December, 1918, when Herbert Hoover, as the head of the American Relief administration, asked the Germans for a statement of their food situation. As a result, in addition to what other allied countries provided, the American relief administration moved into German cities supplies amounting in value to more than $158,000,000. Much of this was not paid for at all. Apart from the American relief administration, the American Friends committee, a Quaker organization, furnished benevolent funds and foodstuffs to German families, including flour, rice, beans, beef, pork products, condensed milk and other provisions. The Quaker units accounted for about $7,000,000 worth of supplies and the American Red Cross expended for Germany, Austria and Hungary about $5,000,000 in the post-war period. Germany owes the United States government approximately $1,200,000,000 for the costs of the army of occupation and as a result of awards against Germany by the mixed claims commission.

There would seem to be ample basis for financing some of these exports of undesirables in America in exchange for thrifty and law-abiding refugees of all faiths and creeds who, like the earliest Americans, are fleeing from religious persecution in Europe to make a new home on this side of the Atlantic.

Dutcher Was Newspaperman With Trademarks of Quality

Washington—I have just come from the funeral of an old friend and colleague, Rodney Dutcher. We first worked together more than 15 years ago on the United Press. He richly deserved the tribute which President Roosevelt paid to him as a reporter who was "fearless and objective."

That is as complete an epitaph as any working newspaper man wants when he goes to press for the last time.

To be fearless and objective. In our business those are the trademarks of quality. In your business, other qualities may be more important. In ours, those are the greatest. With them a newspaper man has everything. Without them, he can't have much writing? That is only putting it down on paper.

To be fearless and objective is an achievement in our business. It is an achievement for a human being, beset as we all are with countless little half-hidden fears, to take the cold facts and lay them on the line. A thousand little inhibitions stare up at us from our typewriters. They say don't use this and don't use that. The facts are in hand but sometimes it takes a muster of cool determination to put them down in print.

To be objective also is an achievement. We are born Raymond Clapper with emotions and we easily acquire prejudices. It is natural to coddle, pamper and nurse them until they turn on us and boss us, and lash us into a daily shriek. To see the facts through this haze of emotion, to let them filter through, to keep still and let the facts do the talking—that, if you've never tried it, is an achievement.

Most newspapermen in America try to develop these qualities because they are, within the business, the marks of good craftsman. And newspaper men, above everything else, want to be good craftsmen, and because they are thinking of that more intensely than about money, they have been taking advantage of and in many instances have been poorly paid for work which is of the highest importance in a democracy. We are, or should be, the eyes and ears of democracy and most newspaper men, as was Rodney Dutcher, are conscious of the obligation.

Few Countries Now Permit Such Fearlessness
In only a few countries, besides our own, are newspaper men given this responsibility. Few countries now have any use for newspaper men who are fearless and objective. Those qualities are not wanted. Governments—politicians in power—tell newspapermen what to write in many countries now. To be objective and fearless in Germany today is the quickest way to land in a concentration camp. An American kind of newspaperman would be, under some governments today, an ideal target for the firing squad.

In introducing President Roosevelt at the thirtieth anniversary dinner of the National Press club here, Harold Brayman, correspondent of the Philadelphia Evening Public Ledger and president of the club, praised Roosevelt as a "newspaper man's president."

"The news sources here," said Brayman, "have remained open—the most open of them all being the White House press conference, where questions are still welcome, whether pertinent, impertinent, or too pertinent, and where the free press reaches its highest degree of freedom."

Roosevelt Can Take it As Well as Dish it Out
Some people think Roosevelt is too dictatorial. But Roosevelt and his most indefatigable critic, Mark Sullivan, still exchange pleasantries at press conferences. And at a press conference a few days after the recent election, Pete Brandt, of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, asked Roosevelt if he wasn't facing a conservative coalition in congress that would cause him trouble. Roosevelt said he didn't think so.

"I do," Pete Brandt shot back. Nothing happened except that Roosevelt and everybody else laughed.

Roosevelt can dish it out. He also can take it.

Because our public men are like that, because we have always proected the free press in America, it is possible for newspaper reporters to try as Rodney Dutcher always did, to be fearless and objective.

Business Better In Appleton Last Month, State Says

Industrial Commission Shows 8.3 Per Cent Better Payrolls

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—General business improvement in Wisconsin during October was particularly noticeable in the Fox river valley, the industrial commission said today, as it released figures on employment and payrolls for that month in Appleton and Green Bay, two of the principal retail trade and manufacturing centers of that region.

Most marked change in Appleton during October was an increase of 8.3 per cent in the amount of payrolls in a week, based on a sampling of 32 establishments in the city.

Payrolls for the 32 places of business jumped from $63,454 for one week in September to $68,701 for one week in October, the industrial commission said.

Employment also improved, although not so noticeably. Rise for the month was 1.7 per cent, the commission reported.

Average weekly earnings in the city, again based on the 32 representative firms, was given as $23.17. Employees worked an average of 41.4 hours a week, and earned an average of 56.1 cents an hour, the commission's report shows.

Green Bay employment jumped 3.2 per cent from September to October, the commission reports, while payrolls were increased 5.9 per cent. The work week in Green Bay during October was 44.4 hours, and the average earnings 58.5 cents an hour.

Lamp Posts on Bridge Are Damaged by Truck

Last Minute Raid on Treasury May Result in New Tax Levies

balance of utility taxes goes to the local units.

Heaviest receipts from income taxes, auto licenses, and gasoline taxes come next spring and summer.

The state treasury is in a risky position, it may be concluded. It becomes even more clear when it is considered that the treasury owes the state highway commission more than $22,000,000. Subtract the obligation to the highway department from the general fund bal-half year, and to allocate several chunks of funds to special departments and for special purposes.

"Budget B", however, should be explained. Under the present state administration's financial arrangement, the legislature passes a self-balancing budget, according to its sponsors' definition. Budget A is a rather stringent one, based on about 80 per cent of what the departments say they cannot get along without. Budget B is a contingent budget, contingent on governmental revenues. It gives the departments what they had asked for, amounts to about $66,000,000. As some people in the capital phrase it, "Budget A is the cake; Budget B is the frosting."

Lately, however, various independent students of state finance have expressed concern about the condition of state revenues. As almost anyone knows, during times of business depression, taxes bring in less money than during prosperous times. And again, as everyone knows, business conditions haven't been exactly rosy during the last year.

Expect Less Income
So it can be expected that such levies as income, dividend, inheritance taxes and surtaxes will not bring in such copious amounts of money to state coffers this year as the budgeters expected more than a year ago when they were drawing up the financial plan for the next two years.

Therefore politicians immediately "smelled a rat" when the lame duck emergency board met last week to pass out heavy allotments of the treasury balance. They reduced it in a few hours from more than $10,000,000 to less than $4,000,000.

Incoming Republicans hollered pretty loud, but Secretary of State-Elect Fred R. Zimmerman, who probably will be a pretty important figure in the Heil administration, backed up his protests with threats of court action to halt payments on the new allotments.

Yesterday it appeared that his threat had borne fruit, for state officers announced that they had cancelled checks on the items protested by Zimmerman.

Thus the treasury balance confronting Governor Heil when he assumes office in January will not be in as perilous a state as is promised to be, but it will not be very healthy one nevertheless.

Even if Governor Heil finds on hand about $6,000,000, which will probably remain if the disputed items are not disbursed, he will begin his term with the state tax barrel lower than it has been in a long time, and he will face the unpleasant necessity of immediately asking the state legislature to levy new taxes, or paring state expenditures ruthlessly.

For the next few months will see heavy drains on the treasury, and few receipts, compared with other parts of the year.

Besides the state payroll of about $1,000,000 a month, the state must pay to local units of government in December almost $4,000,000 in privilege taxes, and $930,000 in the local units' share of income taxes. In January the state must pay nearly $2,000,000 in liquor taxes to the local units. There are specific obligations; local governments count on them in making up their budgets.

In the meantime the treasury will be receiving beverage taxes, automobile license fees, gasoline taxes and utility taxes. But most of these produce less in winter, and the latter, while a heavy producer of income, gives only 15 per cent of the proceeds to the state. The ance and there is a deficit of at least $15,000,000.

The state's fiscal situation can be explained further by pointing out that in former years it was considered good public policy to protect the budget by allowing the secretary of state to levy a general property tax whenever the treasury balance fell below $2,000,000. If that statute were on the books still it would compel Secretary of State Fred R. Zimmerman, probably, to levy such a tax soon after he takes office in January. The Schmedeman legislature, however, repealed the law, with the result that if the treasury does become bare early next year, the only recourse will be a hurried tax statute by the legislature itself as soon as it convenes.

Committee Will Be Selected for Bike Safety Plan

V. F. W. Program to Begin After Adoption Of Ordinance

Kaukauna — A committee to carry out the Veterans of Foreign Wars bicycle safety club plan will be appointed as that group meets tonight at Legion hall. An ordinance necessary to the establishing of the club is scheduled to be approved by the common council at its Dec. 6 meeting and after this approval the Veterans will get the club under way.

The ordinance makes the rules of safety club a part of the city's laws, but enforcement of them is left to club members themselves. Club officers and patrolmen are selected for this purpose.

Following the council's approval a meeting of all bicycle owners between the ages of 6 and 19 will be called and application cards distributed. Children will secure their parents' signatures before returning the cards at the next meeting. Then officers will be elected and installed.

Special 'Court'

Violations of the regulations will be tried in the members' own court, before their own elected judge. If a member is found guilty of any bicycle safety violation his license may be suspended for a period not to exceed 30 days. The purpose of the club is to instill in the minds of the young riders the dangers of bicycling and to cut down the increasing number of traffic accidents involving bicycles.

The names of bicycle owners will be registered with police, along with a description of their wheels. A license will be purchased for 25 cents and affixed to the bicycles.

The organization of bicycle safety clubs is part of the national youth program of the veterans. Charles Clune was chairman of the committee which met with the ordinance committee of the council and Chief of Police James E. McFadden to draft the ordinance now up for approval.

Committee Plans Consolidation of 2 Road Districts

Recommendation Will be Made to Council as Economy Measure

Kaukauna — A system that has been in effect for 53 years—the division of Kaukauna into a north and south road district—is apparently on the way out as the finance committee plans to recommend consolidation of the two under one supervisor as an economy measure.

Two street commissioners are now employed on a yearly salary of $1,410 each. The yearly salary of the new official, to be named by the common council, has been tentatively fixed at $1,800. A saving of $1,000 in this one change would thus accrue to the city. The new official would have complete charge of both road districts, including the city's parks and playgrounds. It is probable that the force of men working on the two sides also will be reduced.

This is not the first time that consolidation of the two districts has been talked about. The question received some council discussion last year but no action was taken. It was then suggested by Mayor Lewis F. Nelson as one of several ways in which the city might save money.

No official announcement of the change has been made. It is slated to come before the council as the budget is set in December.

SIX YEARS LATE

Rochester, N. Y. — (AP) — It was "Happy Easter" just six years and seven months too late for Miss Katherine Weisenborn. She received a card recently from a friend in New York. It was postmarked March 16, 1932, and was received in the Rochester postoffice only a few days ago.

One of the main problems of last year was securing competent referees and special attention will be given to this tonight. An effort will be made to get the same official for all games instead of changing about as the season goes along.

The city league vies with the high school team as a winter sports attraction and has attracted crowds of several hundred. Its players are all former high school and college stars. Rival managers are now endeavoring to get the best of the local talent on their fives, and player lists will be certified tonight. In addition to intra-league play the teams schedule games with strong outfits from other cities. Last year teams from Appleton, Kimberly, Little Chute and Green Bay were played.

The Kaukauna office of the Appleton Post-Crescent is located in the Jules Mertes barbershop on Wisconsin avenue. William Dowling is the correspondent in charge and the telephone number is 107. Subscribers may call this number until 6:30 in the evening if their papers were not delivered.

Wait, Mother—Ask Your Doctor First

Never Give Your Children Unknown "Bargain" Remedies To Take—Unless You Ask Your Doctor. Unknowingly You May Be Risking Their Health—Just To Save A Few Pennies

THE LIFE OF A CHILD is too precious for experiment. So—ask your doctor before you give any remedy you don't know all about. And when giving the common children's remedy, milk of magnesia, always ask for "Phillips' Milk of Magnesia."

Because for three generations Phillips' has been favored by many physicians as a standard, reliable and proved preparation—marvelously gentle for youngsters.

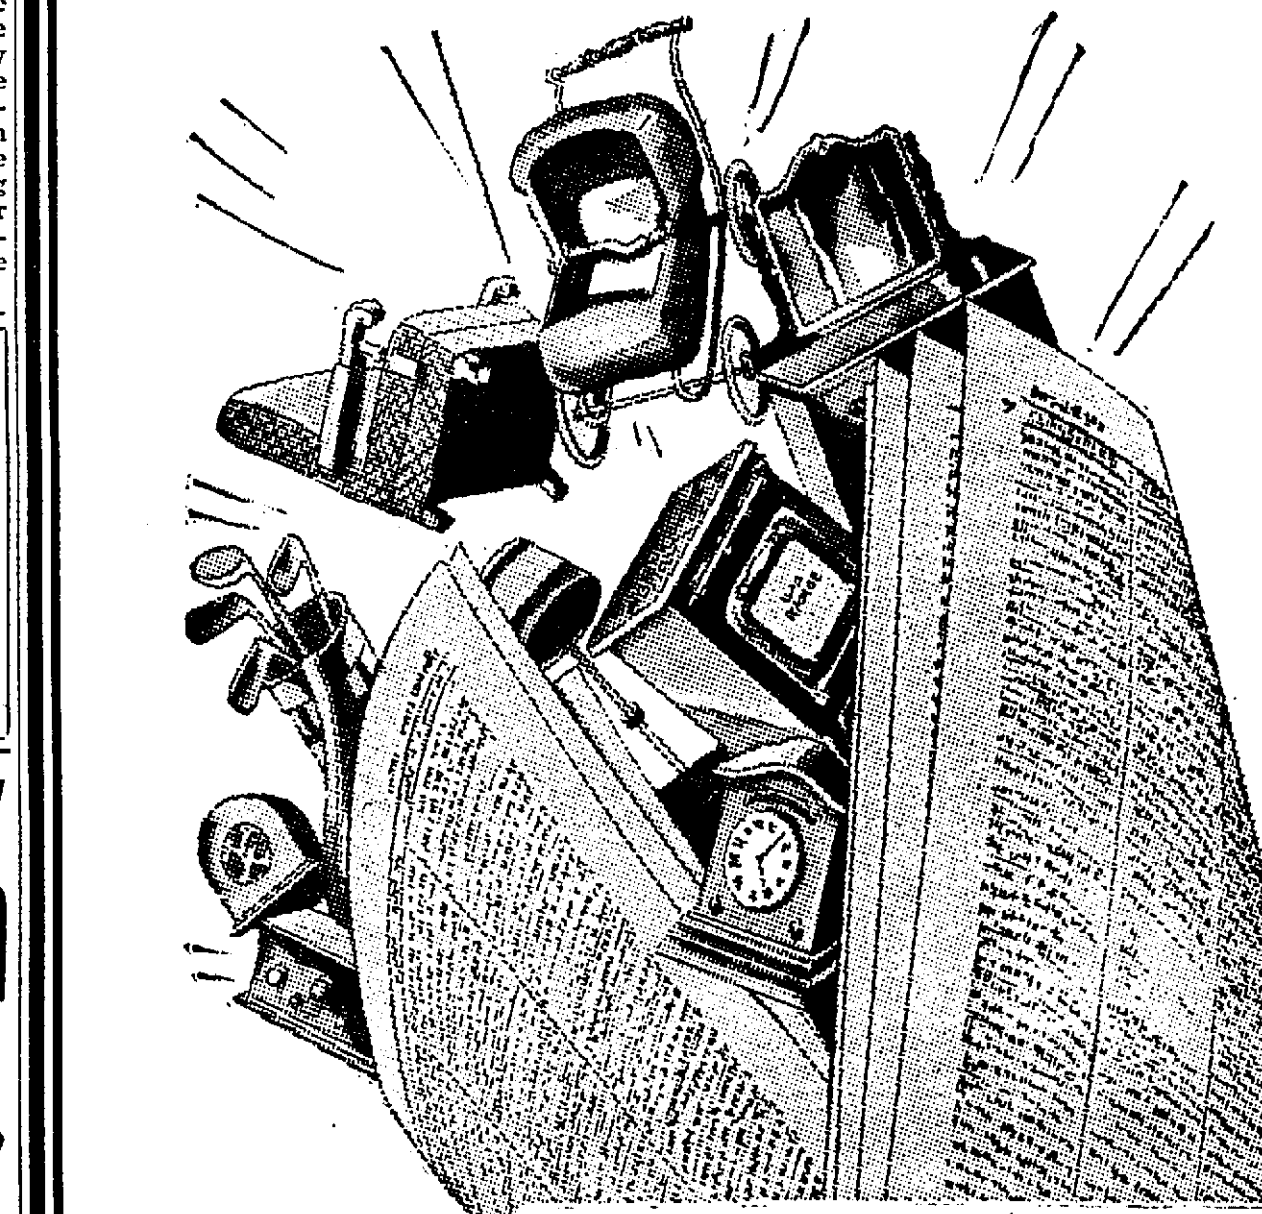

Many children like Phillips' in the newer form—tiny peppermintflavored tablets that chew like candy. Each tablet contains the equivalent of one teaspoonful of the liquid Phillips', and a big box costs but 25¢ at your drug store. A bottle of Phillips' liquid Milk of Magnesia costs but 25¢. So—anyone can afford the genuine. Careful mothers ask for it by its full name "Phillips' Milk of Magnesia."

WHEN WORDS ARE GIVEN A NON- POLITICAL MEANING

Using the word "conservative" in its ordinary as distinguished from its political and slipshod meaning it should be evident to anyone, as emphasized by the recent election, that America is a conservative nation.

And when men gather around to talk of a dependable location for business and industry they will not, if they have keenly awakened senses, overlook the fact that Wisconsin is as conservative a state in this conservative nation as may be found.

Of course there are times when a politically liberal program is really the conservative thing to follow; and there are times when a politically conservative program is actually liberal.

Using these expressions in their correct meaning suggests the constant advisability of caution when they are given a political significance and merely because political programs are not dependably stationary but are constantly changing as leadership changes and even as the opinions of leaders change while they still head party councils.

As the Republican party prepares to take over a considerable fraction of the burden of government let it never recover from the chastening effect of the last few years when a naturally conservative people threw caution to the winds, and sometimes with a penalizing grimace as though to inflict punishment upon the Republicans for permitting the demoralization of their party during the decade preceding the great depression into a listless conglomerate of unqualified men, that, for the most part, controlled it when the great storm struck.

Let us hear no more for a while about party traditions. Let us seek firmer ground for our feet. Traditions are attractive things to talk about at banquets when the wine glass has been emptied but they aren't comparable to men and principles for immediate results.

Presumably the Republican party has adhered constantly to a certain set of principles. But it found those principles of little value to the nation when it didn't have the men in important positions to put them into effect. There is ample evidence to show that the Republicans in certain parts of the country at least have been sufficiently chastened to select outstanding men of character for leadership.

Looking over the records of the men who lead the populous states of Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Michigan and others back into the fold should be convincing of their need as well as the safety of the commonwealth under them. And this discernment of the people in selecting capable men should be further impressed upon our attention by the fact that the Democrats who won, even by the shadow of their teeth, as in New York, Iowa, Indiana and Illinois had records that inspired confidence in their judgment and dependability.

ROME AND LONDON AGREE

The British Parliament approved the Anglo-Italian pact of great importance to the Mediterranean upon the assumption that the war in Spain is no longer a menace to European peace and that if the withdrawal of 10,000 Italian soldiers from Franco's command was not a "settlement of the Spanish question" it was a step or movement in that direction.

But what is the result of English and Italian friendship? Certainly, by its very terms, it is a weakening of German influence in the Mediterranean area. Does that mean a breach in the Rome-Berlin axis? Not necessarily, and indeed far from it. But it does mean an elimination of certain causes that have tended to make the German-Italian friendship close.

And so the great European performance of national wooing continues. One sends a bouquet to another and immediately there are huzzas and friendship. One happens to step upon the toes of another and forthwith the ammunition depots are opened.

But in this constant honeymooning there is neither honey nor moon but anxious eyes and sweaty brows lest words or actions be misunderstood or miscalculated. At the present time with Germany in a high dudgeon of rage Italy appears complacent and almost happy. If they should both get mad at the same time, and Japan went berserk too, they might start something they would eternally regret.

The entire diplomacy of the civilized world now appears to be aimed at seeing whether peace can be preserved by conceding some matters in which these dictatorships are backed somewhat by just claims.

If peace cannot thus be sustained the eventual destruction of the dictatorships is likely, but only, of course, if they so far lose their balance as to start marching.

THE LADIES AND THE FIGHTER

They said that Carnera, the snaggle-toothed sprawler, could not learn anything. Perhaps the ring instructors did find it difficult to plant sagacity back of his brow, but two young women, one in America and the other in England, taught him so much he has been sidestepping womankind ever since and in much more agile manner than he avoided opponents on the resined floor.

In the little village of Gariza, Italy, is a slim blue eyed postal clerk who has sent shivers down Carnera's extensive spine by announcing that she has picked out her wedding gown. "This marriage talk is premature," said Carnera to a correspondent, but Guiseppina, who claims to be his beloved, says "Primo is just timid and doesn't care to talk about it to strangers."

But Primo, with those lazy eyes of his, still pictures those two waitresses who enmeshed him, one in New York and the other in London. It all started so simply in both cases. According to his story he had merely complimented the New York waitress on the quality of her food and when she accused him of breaking her heart poor Primo's tongue stuck in his throat.

But the behemoth never dreamed the English, such conservative people, would pull another fast one upon his swiftly diminishing bankroll. A goodly portion of roast beef and Yorkshire pudding turned Primo garrulous in London one day, enough so to tell the ruddy-faced girl who waited upon him that she would make a good wife for someone. And it cost him most of what he had left.

So he said to the American correspondent, with a catch in his voice and anguish on his brow, "I've had enough of women to want to take plenty of time and think it over before I make such an important decision."

Who can say that Primo wasn't given a first-class education or that his meteoric fistic career, even though it only produced bankruptcy in a financial way at the end, wasn't worth a lot?

"Now I aren't no 'and with the ladies, For, takin' 'em all along. You never can say till you've tried 'em. An' then you are like to be wrong. There's times when you'll think that you mightn't. There's times when you'll know that you might. But the things you will learn from the Yellow an' Brown. They'll 'elp you a lot with the White!"

BRAKES FOR THE STRIKE

The Federated Trades Council at Milwaukee has supplemented the Wagner Act by the creation of a special strike review committee in order to look over the validity of strike threats by unions seeking sympathetic support.

Runaway strikes or a plague of strikes or strikes called in trigger finger fashion bring two general results—first, a weakening of labor's weapon because of its common use and second, a public reaction against the use of the weapon based upon the public conclusion that it is used wildly and unintelligently.

The Milwaukee movement is nothing particularly new because some similar step has been taken in almost every populous community, and when not taken the community has acted in some other manner and quite often in a manner highly distasteful to labor.

The strike weapon, in the way a strike is ordinarily carried on, may be said to be in many respects an extra-legal procedure which is tolerated in the absence of any better procedure. Strike review committees, commissions to delay and investigate controversies, referendums to halt methods employed in labor disputes, are all manifestations of the times, feelers put out to find a just and acceptable means of handling disputes to make up for the great deficiency in the Wagner Act,—its utter refusal to place any limitation whatever upon the worker.

A Verse for Today
By Anne Campbell

"LOOK IN THE MIRROR"

"When in a criticizing mood," she said. The lamplight shining on her silver hair. "Look in the mirror and be comforted. If no sin greets you there!"

Sometimes we children judged the absent one Too harshly... With her wise smile she would say:

"Look in the mirror quickly, little son... Have you no faults today?"

And soon it was our habit to be kinder. The hurting word, the hard laugh and the sneer We all forebore, silenced by her reminder: "Look in the mirror, dear!" (Copyright, 1938)

Japanese may remove a giant statue of the Goddess of Mercy from a hilltop. Naval theorists believe it would constitute an ideal marker along which enemy warships might sight to bombard a nearby naval base.

If the total American income was divided evenly among all the 128 million inhabitants, each person would have received $469 or $9 a week, during 1935-36.

DALE HARRISON'S In Old New York

New York—The Tuesday Review: our own little newspaper.
FAIR GROUNDS IS (ARE?) VERY NICE AT NIGHT TIME
Editor Visits Site at 4 A. M.
(By Mistake) And Writes Vivid Account.

The World's Fair Grounds (is are?) certainly very pretty at 4 a. m.

Let us think me a rounder and a rake for being out at such an hour. I hasten to say it happened most accidentally. I had lingered over long in a Broadway rotisserie, the roast having proved tougher than usual, and upon my emergence therefrom I hailed a cab. To the driver I said: "Drive me to my domicile in Jackson Heights."

Away we went, merrily withal; but I fell asleep unaccountably, and when I awoke I was dumfounded to observe we were in the Fair Grounds.

I said to the caddy, with severity: "My! My! We are in the Fair Grounds. You have gone beyond the destination I mentioned to you at the outset. Your meter is registering $1 more than it should, and I rebel thereat." I was determined to show the lout I was not Born Yesterday.

He replied: "By Jingo, sir, what you say is indeed true. I have passed through Jackson Heights without noticing it. Quaint, I call it. Ha. Ha. Ha."

Being a man who adjusts himself quickly to every situation, I elected to make the most of it. I looked from the window. I saw some lonely street lights and some stretches of pavement and a lot of desolate real estate. There were some shadowy structures which looked to be buildings. Otherwise I might easily have been back in Paw Paw, Michigan. No single soul did I see. To the jehu I remarked: "The Fair Grounds (is are?) certainly very pretty at night. Gotham should be proud." To which he responded: "I think you've Gothamized there. Ha. Ha. Ha." (For the extra $1 he was giving me Witty Sayings, the churl!)

In closing, I cannot resist remarking upon the strange manner in which great newspaper scoops, such as my account of the Fair Grounds at Night Time, come to be. If I had not been in a rotisserie, if I had not fallen asleep in the cab, and if I had not awakened exactly as I did, I would never have seen the Fair Grounds at 4 a. m., and therefore could not have told you that the Fair Grounds (is are?) certainly very, very pretty in the night time.

—Billy Jones, of the singing team of Jones and Hare, is a strange picture when he plays billiards, as he does almost nightly at the New York Athletic Club. He wears earmuffs when he plays; I mean he really does. "The buzz of conversation among the spectators," he explains, "disturbs me, so I cover my ears."

—Ye Observer came upon a mighty tasty morsel d'oeuvres lately. A slice of cold boiled ham is spread elegantly on a small plate. Placed upon the ham are two slices of cantaloupe stripped of their rinds. The saltiness of the ham serves as a palate-pleasing supplement to the melons. What won't these kitchen mechanics think up next, I always say.

Today's editorial, written entirely without reference to any books whatsoever, is entitled: "Whither Are We Drifting?"

Whither are we drifting, friends? Every year at this season we ask this pertinent question, fraught as it is with deep underlying significance.

We ask the question, but what happens? We repeat, for emphasis, What Happens? Not a thing! Oh, the pity of it!

Are we men or are we mice? That's another good question, but we wander from our subject. Whither Are We Drifting? We cup our hand to our ear, but no answer is forthcoming. Oh, to be in England now that Spring is Here! But the flowers that bloom in the spring, tra la, have nothing to do with the case, and we again thunder our query to the ends of the earth:

Whither, oh, whither, Drifteth we? (Like we said, our editorial policy is absolutely fearless. We ain't afraid of nobody.)

Tuesday, Nov. 25, 1913

Twenty-one Appleton young men of the Methodist, Congregational and Presbyterian churches were to leave for Wausau Friday night to attend the eleventh annual convention of older boys and workers with boys conducted under the auspices of the state Y.M.C.A. and the Wisconsin Sunday School association. Among those who were to attend were Clarence Schroeder, Delmar Peterson, Austin Saacker, Gerald and Donald Bushey, Eugene Wright, Earl Miller, Lester Abney, George Clemans, Carlton and Harold Stowe, Elmer Root, Howard Badger, the Rev. W. D. Marsh as adult leader, Jack Fawcett, Alfred Bradford, Reeve Colvin, Alfred Pungie, Carl Albrecht and Harry Ahlquist with William Helm as leader.

Miss Marie Hassmann of Appleton was to play one of the leads in "Birds of a Feather" at the Appleton theater that night. Miss Hassmann had been with the Winger show earlier in the season and was familiar with the part and agreed to comply with the request that she appear before the local audience.

A Bystander In Washington

BY FRISTON GROVER

Washington—It is easy to gain the impression that the government is staffed with bright-eyed young men from the colleges, economists from who knows where, and mental madonnas rescued from the swamps of sordid business.

But, as the ancient law would have it, 'tain't necessarily so.

Cast an eye about Washington and you discover the halls of government alive with dozens and hundreds of minor and major officials who won their spurs in state and city government and were promoted into federal service partly for the better pay and the greater glory.

Secretaries From the Banks

Secretary of War Woodring is a former governor of Kansas and Secretary of Labor Perkins first grew famous as head of the New York state labor department.

Secretary Morgenthau's experience as New York state conservation commissioner might better have fitted him for secretary of the interior than secretary of the treasury, but he is at the latter job now.

Harry Hopkins, super-cabinet member, was director of the New York state relief administration before he came to the federal government to undertake more spending than ever was entrusted to one man in the history of the country.

The New Wage-Hour Man

Elmer F. Andrews, who succeeded Secretary Perkins in the New York labor department, now is Wage-Hour administrator. His deputy, Paul Sifton, was deputy New York state industrial commissioner. Dr. Thomas Parran, chief of the bureau of public health, turned up for his present job while New York state health commissioner, Nathan Straus, U. S. Housing administrator, formerly was special housing commissioner for New York City.

Dr. W. M. W. Splawn, chairman of the Interstate Commerce commission, formerly president of the University of Texas, was for a time a member of the Texas Railroad commission. Oscar B. Colquitt, once governor of Texas and again member of the railroad commission now is with RFC.

Judge William R. Green of the U. S. court of claims first learned judging in the 15th Iowa judicial district. Norman B. Gray of Cheyenne, trial examiner for the federal trade commission, earlier was secretary of the Wyoming public service commission.

Promoted From Massachusetts

Edwin Smith, member of the national labor relations board, once was Massachusetts' commissioner of labor and industries. That state also contributed Dr. Winfred Overholser, once state commissioner of mental diseases, to head St. Elizabeth's (veterans' mental) hospital in Washington.

Guy Helvering, internal revenue commissioner, formerly was Kansas' highway director. His special assistant, Bertha Wetherill, reputedly one of the highest paid women in Washington, served several years as Kansas State accountant—as a Republican.

Frank Bane, executive director of social security, was formerly Virginia director of public welfare. William E. Lee, former Idaho chief justice, now is a member of the Interstate Commerce commission.

The supreme court has received many a judge trained in the states, the late Justice Holmes and Cardozo being most prominent recent examples. Federal district and circuit courts are plump with state talent.

Then too, President Roosevelt himself used to have a state job—governor of New York.

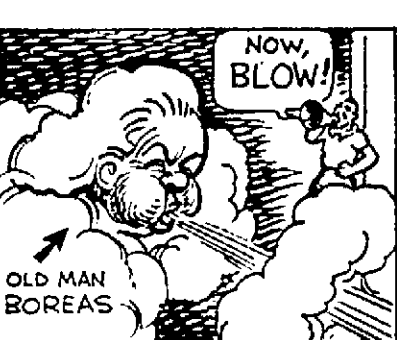

And we've barely scratched the surface.

It's Odd But It's Science

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

New York—Motion picture engineers have a new machine to put the nose back into talkies and another to make silent winds.

To escape from exaggeration of slight noises by a microphone, the sound films sometimes have the actors' voices in an unnatural quiet. The missing thing is reverberation.

the natural, small echoes which roll to and fro in any room.

It is expensive to produce these echoes just right when the picture is being filmed. The new machine runs them in afterward. It is a magnetic tape, carrying a murmuring sound, which is fed into the talkie at the right moments.

Blowers which make the imitation of big winds are too noisy to be placed close to the scene being photographed. At a distance the breezes from the blower are difficult to direct.

The new apparatus puts the blower outside the studio and brings the "wind" in through canvas tunnels. These wind tunnels are fitted with nozzles so that an unseen wind mechanic can place a breeze in just the right spot.

Personal Health Talks

THE CRAVING

It is characteristic of alcoholism, the disease, for the subject to assert that he or she can let it alone without the aid of any treatment, but that is the acid test of the deficiency or degeneracy—the fact that he or she can't avoid indulging again, after a longer or shorter interval.

What I don't know about the nature of the disease, alcoholism, fills many tomes. I do know, from professional experience, that the method of treatment given to the medical profession by Dr. Alexander Lambert in 1909-1910, restores some of the most depraved humans to sobriety and industry, rids them of the craving. Any good doctor anywhere can administer this treatment, provided he can have full control of the patient for ten days to three weeks. Physicians may obtain all the details of the technique from Lambert's original reports published in the Journal of the American Medical Association, Feb. 29, 1909, and Feb. 9, 1910. A fairly comprehensive abstract of the method may be found in Forchheimer's "Therapeutics of Internal Diseases," Vol. II, p. 593-595.

"At times I drank to excess," says a reader, "because I felt the need of a stimulant or just wanted to feel better."

"Felt the need of a stimulant" and "just wanted to feel better" may be interpreted as manifestations of vitamin deficiency, especially deficiency of daily intake of vitamin B complex and vitamin D. How much such vitamin deficiency, which is common in people whose diet is chiefly refined foods, has to do with the craving for alcohol and tobacco, I do not know, but I believe it may be a common factor.

Indeed the reader goes on to say: "But I have completely broken away from it now and no longer seem to need it since I have been taking a daily ration of vitamin B complex and vitamin D to supplement my diet. My digestion and bowel action is better."

It is a well established principle of medicine that alcoholic patients are almost certain to suffer from vitamin deficiency, in proportion with the steady or hard drinker's inability to take and retain adequate food. In fact the cause of multiple neuritis, which paralyzes the open or secret tipplers, is due to lack of vitamin B and large doses of vitamin B injected into the veins at first, will most quickly cure it.

Don't turn to booze, you poor goof, when you "feel the need of a stimulant" or "want to feel better." Instead, try supplementing your deficient diet with adequate daily rations of vitamin B complex and vitamin D. These vitamins do something for you that alcohol never can do—they really pep you up or keep you feeling fine.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Insulated

My father and I have an argument, and we hope you will settle it. Father says it is dangerous, and I say it is harmless for one with earache to go out in the sunshine on a cold day for a while, with his ear stuffed with cotton. (J. R.)

Answer—Father loses. I think it would be better for one with earache to take the cotton or other stuffing out of the ear before he goes out. In fact such stuffing should not be kept in the ear, except to absorb discharge if the ear is running, and then it must be changed often enough to avoid interfering with drainage or proper ventilation. It is usually a mistake, and harmful, to keep the ear plugged. Let the air exert its natural healing action.

Gentlemen Only

It would be of supreme interest to your readers afflicted with enlarged prostate to obtain, thru your column or by mail, the experience of some who have taken your advice and submitted to operation. (L. A. F.)

Answer—I have a monograph on the subject of Prostatic Obstruction which any gentleman may have if he asks for it and enclosing a stamped envelope bearing his address. It is human nature to forget it, say no more about it, when you have been cured of anything.

Boy Needs No Meat

Eleven year old son does not care for meat. He eats all kinds of vegetables, cheese, drinks a quart of milk a day, is healthy, not underweight. His father thinks he should eat meat and forces him even to the point of punishment... the boy will eat hamburger but there is a scene at table when his father insists... the boy becomes very upset... (Mrs. M. F. C.)

Answer—If he were my boy I would not mind if he never ate any meat.

Your Birthday

If November 23 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:30 to 11:30 a. m.; from 1:30 to 3:30 p. m.; and from 8:30 to 10:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 7:30 to 9:30 a. m.; from 6:30 to 8:30 p. m.; and from 10:30 p. m. until midnight.

Your self-respect will mean more to you than anything else this day, so do nothing to forfeit it. The spirit of adventure may make you indulge in day-dreaming or in a trip of exploration in some strange section. If you permit your imagination to run in some strange section, if you permit your imagination to work overtime you may have to do the same thing to catch up with some important task. Don't let congenial company cause you to forget the passage of time, and be the underlying reason for your being late for some engagement. Tardiness apparently will be responsible for most of this day's mixups and quarrels. Some prim and prudish people may try to carry conventionality too far, and unless suppressed may make social gatherings failures. You ought to be safe in using your own judgment in deciding what constitutes right and wrong. Married and engaged couples, and those who are planning a matrimonial future together, will do well to defer to each other's wishes, whenever it is possible this day, if they desire things to move smoothly.

If a woman and November 23 is your birthday, shrewd business instinct may make you love to drive a close bargain. Being thrifty you probably spend money judiciously. Some deep affection is apt to influence many of your actions and bring great deal of happiness into your life. Through interesting characters you are likely to meet, your viewpoint on numerous subjects may undergo a decided change, much to the surprise of your family and friends. Antiques ought to interest you; and music, art and literature might provide you with an unlimited amount of pleasure. As a teacher, designer, artist, shop or store manager, purchasing agent or lecturer you may make a fine reputation. Through marriage your most cherished hopes may be realized.

The child born on November 23 is likely to have a very lovable disposition, lofty aspirations, and some talent that probably can be capitalized.

If a man and November 23 is your natal day, self-possession, energy and foresight may enable you to make a great deal of money. Law, medicine, theatrical or literary work, salesmanship or engineering are among the activities that appear to be the most likely mediums through which success may be achieved by you.

Bette Davis, Husband Come to Parting of Ways

Hollywood—(U.)—Bette Davis' "marital vacation" from her husband, Harmon O. Nelson, will end in a divorce court.

The blonde star, after two months apart from her childhood sweetheart, telegraphed film reporters last night: "There will not be any reconciliation. Harmon will apply for a divorce."

Her announcement indicated dissolution in the near future of the marriage in which many of Miss Davis' hopes were wrapped up after her elopement with Nelson to Yuma, Ariz., on Aug. 19, 1932.

STOPS SWARMS

Louisville, Ky.—(U.)—Despite modern agricultural methods, farmers in some parts of Kentucky still allow superstition to regulate their bee culture.

Editors of the federal writers' project, a division of the works progress administration, reported they found many bee-keepers draped their hives in black immediately after the death of a member of the bee "household."

The drapes are left on until after burial "services" because the belief exists that were the practice abandoned the bees would swarm.

Under the CAPITOL DOME

BY JOHN W. WYNGAARD

Madison — Politicians are relentless chaps. The canvassing boards have barely finished counting the votes of the last election and already they are looking forward to and talking about the next one. In 1940, when things will be complicated by a presidential canvass.

The losers in the state elections today are sadly preparing to vacate their places. The winners joyfully look forward to replacing them in a few weeks.

In the back of the minds of both, and in their private conversations, meanwhile, they are thinking, and hoping about 1940.

Here is how some of the shrewd operators in the state political camps are looking at things just now: Julius P. Heil, like most of his predecessors, may with confidence look forward to a second term, because if business does not pick up, the New Deal and its candidate will get the blame in 1940 and the Republican party will ride back into power, carrying along with it the Wisconsin ticket. If business improves, the state administration can claim, and will get the credit here, along with the New Deal nationally, but the latter won't be able to carry its state ticket because of the thoroughly worm-eaten condition of the Wisconsin Democratic party after its 1938 fiasco.

PROGRESSIVE PESSIMISM

That sort of theorizing may seem a little premature, but it's what the political managers are thinking about now. And it isn't only Republican reflection; a lot of Progressives agree that such thoughts have a whole lot of unpleasant logic. It doesn't make them very jolly either.

One of this correspondent's informants, who has been a kind of campaign manager for an ambitious Progressive who looked forward to a gubernatorial candidacy one of these years, remarked the other day that he has dismissed all thought of running in 1940.

Incidentally, it seems to be pretty well agreed that Phil LaFollette will not run for governor again. The next head of the party ticket will be the first not named LaFollette.

POLITICAL FINANCE

It is difficult, even for supporters of the Progressive administration, to escape the conclusion that the retiring state officials who drastically trimmed the state's general fund by generous allocations of funds last week were acting upon political motives.

Governor Heil, when he takes over the helm in January, will find the general fund, the state's treasury, in the most anemic position it has been for years, in large part due to the action of the present Progressive emergency board a couple of days ago in handing out big slices of the fun to various state departments, and among other things, to pay a 75 year old Civil War debt which could very well have been postponed a few more years.

So don't be surprised if the new state administration publicly demands a public accounting of its stewardship from the retiring state administration before the capitol changes hands at the beginning of the new year.

NINE LIVES

It seems pertinent to mention here that a serious error of judgment to which some of the more ardent Republicans are liable—some of them have already been guilty of it—is the assumption that the rout suffered by Phil LaFollette in the late election means the end of his career as a Wisconsin political leader or of the power of his party.

Nothing can be more unrealistic than such an idea, and the Republicans who will soon begin their tough job of running Wisconsin for the next two years should of all things be realistic. Phil LaFollette got the worst licking anyone in his family ever got; but he is only down, not out. As one of his severest and bitterest opponents remarked sagely the other day: "LaFollette has nine lives; he has only lost two."

BOUNCING BACK

In 1932, when, ironically enough, another rich man and industrialist trounced him soundly, LaFollette promptly threw over politics for a spell and went to Europe to enjoy himself, and incidentally to make a little money as a journalist of sorts.

This fall he took his medicine in good fashion, bounced back: promptly and within 48 hours after the returns were in had called a mass meeting to set off the 1940 campaign. Phil is not through. He is too young, too vigorous—ambitious you may call it—too eager for the political chase. It is wise to remember too that more than 300,000 voters stuck with him this fall and that the Republicans, at least some of them, are going to have a tough time making good their somewhat careless promises of the campaign.

Club Hears Talk on Responsibility of Parents to Children

Chilton—The regular meeting of the Woman's club was held at the city hall Monday afternoon. Members of the Liberal Arts club of New Holstein were the guests of the local club. The guest speaker was Mrs. M. C. Dubbe of Winneconne, president of the sixth district W. F. W. C., whose topic was "If Parents Were Experts." Mrs. Dubbe, whose husband is principal of the Children's Home School at Winneconne, has done much social work among children and young people, and she dealt mainly with what society owes to the public.

In Wisconsin alone there are 10,000 children in institutions, of whom a small percentage are orphans, she said. Many of them are children of divorced parents, while others are the victims of ill health in parents, insanity of drunkenness. Society should feel a responsibility toward these unfortunate, as neglect of children by parents inevitably leads to delinquency, she asserted. Crime is basically a youth problem, for in the year 1937 alone, 18 per cent of those arrested for crimes were under 21 years of age.

The solution of the crime problem must come from the home, Mrs. Dubbe stated. The needs of children are not only physical care, food, shelter and clothing; they need also security, the feeling of being loved and wanted. They need to be given an adequate education and they need recreation. There are in Wisconsin at the present time 47 organizations, which are caring for 2,000 children. Each person should feel responsible towards those less fortunate, not only for the sake of the children, but also for the sake of society. Each child saved from delinquency saves the state $10,000, the speaker maintained.

Mrs. J. E. Reinhold played two piano solos, and flute solos and a trombone trio were given by members of the high school orchestra. The committee in charge of refreshments consisted of Mrs. H. F. Arps, Mrs. R. C. Maples and Mrs. Cyril Pfeffer.

The next meeting of the club will be an evening meeting, on Dec. 19, and will be a safety program given in conjunction with the Safety Council of Chilton and Madison.

Appleton Hadassah Chapter Will Join Campaign to Aid Homeless Jewish Children

APPLETON CHAPTER OF HADASSAH, Women's Zionist Organization of America, will join with members throughout the United States in an emergency campaign to raise funds for the transfer to Palestine of thousands of starving and homeless Jewish children, many of whom have been separated from their parents during the reprisals against Jews in Germany. Mrs. Abraham Sigman, president of Appleton chapter, will attend a mid-west conference at Milwaukee Sunday and Monday, together with other members from Appleton, and on her return will call a board meeting to decide what will be done locally to assist in the campaign.

More than $25,000, enough to care for some seventy refugee children already holding certificates for Palestine, was sent to Jerusalem by Hadassah as an initial contribution recently.

Hadassah's 70,000 women members comprise the sole American agency for the Youth Aliyah or immigration movement which has been removing Jewish children from central Europe to Palestine for the last 44 years. The emergency plea was telegraphed to 381 chapter presidents of the organization in 45 states after a specially convened meeting of the executive committee of the national board in New York last week. Large numbers of starving children have been given temporary refuge in the Netherlands, and negotiations have also begun with the Scandinavian governments to arrange additional temporary places for children awaiting certificates under the auspices of the Youth Aliyah movement, according to Mrs. David B. Greenberg of New Rochelle, N. Y., national Youth Aliyah chairman.

Roaming Streets
One thousand children are roaming the streets of Vienna and thousands are living in terror on the Polish and Czechoslovakian borders, the message from the Netherlands said.

The last of a group of 903 child emigres who were permitted to enter the Holy Land by a previous student schedule arrived in Haifa, Palestine, on the 6th of this month. Miss Henrietta Scold, founder of Hadassah, informed the group. Of these, 400 were Austrian Jewish children who had been removed in a two months period prior to the expiration of the last Palestine immigration allotment.

The campaign will set as its goal the immediate raising of the quarter million dollar budget for Jewish youth immigration work accepted by the last convention of Hadassah. Thirty-one hundred Jewish boys and girls from Austria, Germany, Czechoslovakia, Poland and Rumania already have been transferred to Palestine where they have been placed in some 35 agricultural colonies and three trade centers for a two year training course in farming and other vocations.

Sixteen regional speakers now on tour will bring the emergency plea to various parts of the country under the auspices of Hadassah.

Mormon Leader Is 82 Years Old Today

Raps Present Trend of Pensions for Healthy Persons of 60

Salt Lake City (AP)—Heber J. Grant, venerable president of the Latter Day Saints church, who was considered a poor insurance risk at 18, observed today the 82nd anniversary of his birth with the conclusion that life begins not at 40 but 80.

The gray-bearded, balding leader of the Mormons finds that "I can do more work now with greater ease than when I was 45."

Tall, thin and vigorous, the bespectacled churchman will be feted tonight by members of his family. Tomorrow, leaders of city and state will honor him on the 20th anniversary of his appointment to the presidency of the church.

"Age is purely a quality of mind," he said in an interview. "If leaders of this church had followed the modern-day theory of retiring at 60 there wouldn't have been a president since Brigham Young. One man, Lorenzo Snow, was 85 when called to the presidency and he served brilliantly for three years."

The theory of pensions for persons of 60 or more is particularly an ire-arouser for the aged leader. "Mind you, I'm not attacking the new deal, but if a man is healthy, it's a species of dishonesty to want somebody else to take care of yourself and your family."

Thanksgiving Dinner Will Be Cheapest in Four Years

Chicago (AP)—The family Thanksgiving this year will be solemnized over the cheapest dinner in four years.

A survey of wholesale and retail markets today in Chicago, the nation's food center, showed the best bargains since 1934 are available.

The family purse still is receiving benefit from a sharp cut in food costs that occurred late last year when the cost of feeding the nation fell from the highest point in six years to the lowest point in four years.

The 1937 peak was reached just before Thanksgiving. One of the most pronounced price slumps on record followed and by February, this year, prices were lower than they had been any time since January, 1935. There has been a slight rise since but the general level of prices, according to government statistics, is about 14 per cent lower than a year ago.

For one thing, the roasted bird around which the thanksgiving dinner is laid is lower. In the Chicago wholesale market dressed turkeys are about the same to 1/2 cent a pound lower and are well below prices in 1935. Ducks, geese and chickens are 10 to 15 per cent lower.

Comparison of prices in retail and wholesale markets now and a year ago also showed:

Butter is 29 per cent lower; oysters about 8 per cent lower; sugar 16 per cent off; lard 28 per cent down; milk 16 per cent lower; coffee 12 per cent lower; eggs, broad, mince, celery, olives and assorted nuts little changes; potatoes slightly higher; apples about 10 per cent up; cranberries 35 per cent higher; lemons and oranges slightly lower.

Swanson Shows Film, Tells Quill, Scroll Members of Fishing

"Men love fishing more than any other sport in the world because of the element of mystery in it," R. L. Swanson, an instructor at Wilson Junior High school, told members of the Quill and Scroll society at Appleton High school Monday afternoon. "Man has always been intrigued by what lies beyond the horizon or under the surface of the water, as in this case. There is as much adventure in fishing as in prospecting for gold," he said.

Swanson, illustrating his talk with colored motion pictures taken in Superior National park, described typical fishing expeditions in the north woods. Included in the film were scenes of northern sunsets, swamps, waterfalls, lakes and wild life.

Deer, reported to be the most common of all big game in the U. S., number about 1,450,000 in the national forests alone.

Diaper Shortage Is Alarming Soviets; Shops Haven't Any

Moscow — An alarming diaper shortage in Soviet Russia was revealed today by the newspaper Izvestia.

Inefficient organization was blamed by the government organs for the losing race diaper factories are running with the increasingly-busy Russian stock.

"In 1938," Izvestia said, "the people's commissariat of public health ordered the production of 3,710,000 sets of diapers for new-born infants. But although this figure was below the actual needs, the commissariat of light industry produced, during the first nine months of 1938, only 765,900."

Many of these, the newspaper charged, failed to reach the ultimate consumer.

"Even in Moscow shops in the same neighborhood as the people's commissariat of trade," it added, "it is difficult to find a set of diapers."

"During the past 20 days articles for babies have disappeared entirely from shops."

Izvestia criticized as "insulting and bureaucratic" an attempt to organize diaper distribution on the basis of a census to be taken of all women expecting babies within a month.

Washington — The Public Works Administration said today it had "under active consideration" the application of the Duluth, Minn., port authority and the Superior harbor commission for a grant of $1,836,234 to construct a bridge across St. Louis bay.

The total cost of the project was estimated at $4,080,520.

PWA officials said the application had arrived in the central office Oct. 31. They added that "lack of funds" remaining to the credit of the PWA had held up action on it.

Fair, Continued Cold, Is Report

Mercury at 21 This Morning; Upstate Has Sub-Zero

Fair tonight and tomorrow, with brisk temperatures still prevailing, is the forecast for Appleton and vicinity issued today by the Milwaukee weather bureau.

While the mercury fell below zero in northern Wisconsin early today, Appleton recorded a low of 21 at 7 o'clock. At Superior-Duluth, the thermometer registered a minimum of four below and Park Falls reported four above.

At Superior, the mercury catapulted from 30 above to below zero after a four-inch snowfall, the Associated Press reported. The snow aided deer hunters but the zippy weather kept many of them indoors. Travel on highways was dangerous because of ice.

At noon today the thermometer atop the Post-Crescent registered 27 degrees. The sky was blue and almost cloudless, with a bright sun shining. Abilene, Tex., turned in a national high of 80 degrees yesterday. Bismarck, N. D., reported 10 below, the coldest in the country.

"The world must stand up to Bully Hitler and he will go the way of all bullies," the paper said.

Three Companions of Slain Hunter are Held

L'Anse, Mich. — Three hunting companions of Leslie Kempainen, 23, of Pelkie, who was wounded fatally while driving an automobile to a hunting camp near Pelkie Sunday, were in technical custody of state police today.

Coroner William Crebassa announced yesterday after an autopsy that a bullet wound from a .32 caliber weapon was found in Kempainen's right temple. There were powder burns on the dead man's hat and around the wound, the coroner added.

State police said a 22 caliber and a larger rifle were found in the trunk at the rear of the car but that no other weapon or exploded shell was found in or near the car.

The officers declared all three companions had been drinking and did not remember what happened. They denied hearing a shot. The trio escaped injury when the car went out of control and overturned after Kempainen was shot.

Nazis are Cool to British Proposal To Help Refugees was offered by Philip J. Noel-Baker, labor party member.

Labor members proposed a tax on German products, control of German assets in England and strong diplomatic action to demonstrate British disapproval of the Nazi anti-Jewish program.

Noel-Baker told the house he had been informed 70 Jews were killed in a concentration camp and detailed other instances of mistreatment in Germany.

He advocated a three-point plan: 1. A protest to Berlin by Britain, the United States and other governments; 2. Inform Germany there could be no cordial relations "while the martyrdom of Jews, socialists, Protestants and Catholics goes on;" 3. "Consider if we should not take measures of active self-protection."

EMBARGO ASKED
New York — President Roosevelt was asked today to impose an embargo against all German goods.

The embargo was demanded at a mass protest meeting in Madison Square garden last night sponsored by American organizations actively opposed to the Nazi regime's policies concerning its minorities. Police estimated more than 20,000 attended.

Spectators leaped to their feet shouting when William Weiner, president of the Jewish Peoples' committee, said:

"Let us organize such an irresistible movement that its voice will span the ocean, give hope to the victims and bring fear to the persecutors."

Speakers included Dorothy Parker, author and screen writer, Dorothy Thompson, newspaper columnist, and H. V. Kaltenbach, radio commentator. Many Broadway entertainers attended.

Paul J. Kern, president of the Municipal Civil Service commission and chairman of the meeting, said greetings and messages of support were received from the governors of 21 states, 22 congressmen and several United States senators.

Hears Testimony in Lake Obstructions in Lake

Fond du Lac — Sam Bryan, examiner for the state public service commission, continued today to hear testimony regarding alleged obstructions in Lake Winnebago.

Seven persons are accused of depositing earth, stone and other material on the bed of the lake adjacent to their property. State law provides a maximum fine of $1,000 for illegal filling.

A. F. Johnson, Fond du Lac, testifying in the first hearing yesterday, declared that a stone pier in the lake from his property at Pelee beach was there when he purchased the property three years ago.

Johnson declared that if this pier and other similar ones were removed, property would be damaged by erosion. The shoreline was washed back about six feet in the last year, he said.

Inquest Adjourned in Death at Manitowoc

Manitowoc — An inquest into the death of Edgar Ames, 29, was adjourned after a coroner's jury was sworn in yesterday.

Over 200 Does Found Dead in Rhinelander Area, Wardens Report

Rhinelander — Conservation wardens today had a count of more than 200 does found dead in this area during the first three days of the deer hunting season. Vilas county alone counted 100.

The kill in the Rhinelander district is reported much larger than last year. Some of the bucks brought in weigh better than 350 pounds.

Five deer hunters were fined a total of $500 in Oneida county court yesterday.

Conservation officials said 98 arrests have been made thus far in the northeastern section of the state.

Drivers of panel trucks and covered vehicles traveling in the deer area were warned to mark their automobiles with red after a Rhinelander dry cleaning truck was pierced by bullets near Laona.

To date, eight hunters have been reported killed, including one who died from a fall.

John Boyers of Starks, shot through the right forearm, was taken to his home after treatment at Tomahawk.

Leon Menard, 34, of Milwaukee, was shot in the hip by a companion while hunting 15 miles west of Bayfield, his former home.

Negro Suspect Held in Shootings at Capital

Washington — Police picked up a 28-year-old Negro today for questioning about shootings that have caused the death of two persons, wounded two others and terrorized northwest Washington for more than a week.

Officers have been holding another Negro, described by Mrs. Edna L. Brown as resembling the assailant who wounded her Thursday night and killed her companion, Peter F. Murray, 60.

He will be placed in a police line-up before a couple who reported that a Negro gunman approached them near the park last Wednesday, threatened to kill them, but let them go after they gave him $10 and pleaded for their lives.

During the previous weekend John G. Clements, 23, was wounded while in an automobile with a woman companion, Edward Roper, 31, Negro, was killed under similar circumstances in the same area.

Two Men Deny They Obtained Hunting Permits Illegally

Waupaca — Charged with obtaining hunting licenses illegally, A. M. Drott and Carl Seivert, both of Chicago, pleaded not guilty before Justice of the Peace S. W. Johnson yesterday. They waived preliminary examinations and each was bound over to circuit court and released under $1,000 bonds.

It was charged the men obtained hunting licenses in the village of Fremont Thursday and falsified their residences. They were arrested by game wardens in northern Wisconsin.

Conviction on the charge carries a fine of not less than $500 and not more than $1,000 or not less than four months and not more than a year in jail.

Reich, France No Longer Divided, Hitler States

Berchtesgaden, Germany — (AP) — Reichsfuehrer Hitler declared today that Germany and France were "no longer divided by the serious border conflicts which burdened their past" as he received the credentials of France's new ambassador Robert Coulondre.

The envoy, formerly French ambassador to Moscow, said the two countries often had met on the battlefield in the past but had learned to esteem each other and that their struggles had been futile.

The fuhrer, in reply, expressed the conviction that Germany and France had every reason to esteem each other, to live on good neighborly terms, to complement each other in the economic and cultural domains and collaborate with each other in all sincerity.

"Pacific competition between our two peoples, no longer divided by the serious border conflicts which burdened their past so often, must, I am convinced, contribute to the well-being not only of our two peoples but of all Europe," Hitler declared.

Daladier Takes Firm Action to Put End To Stay-in Strikes

Paris — Premier Edouard Daladier took firm action today to break the wave of stay-in strikes which spread in the defense industries on the eve of British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's visit.

As labor opposition to the government's financial decree laws mounted, the premier's office published this note:

"M. Daladier has addressed precise instructions to prefects of all departments to put an end immediately to occupations of factories which have taken place."

Labor's most important challenge to the government's decree laws came in the northern manufacturing town of Denain, where 500 men who refused to return to work in the Calais arms factory after striking yesterday were discharged this morning.

The entire 4,000 workers of the plant, engaged in manufacturing artillery for the government, went on strike immediately and occupied the grounds.

The prefecture ordered mobile guards to clear the factory, but met a prompt warning from the northern metal workers' union that if the strikers were forced out of the plant a general strike of 10,000 men in

Wolf Hunting in New London Area Becomes Popular Sport

New London—Wolf hunting south of New London in the town of Caledonia is becoming as popular as deer hunting in these parts. Nearly every hunter and his dog was scouring the territory along the county line road about five miles south of the city Sunday and two more of the brush wolves were brought down, bringing the total to late to six. Hunters reported at least three more still at large when they gave up the chase.

The two fortunate marksmen Sunday were Alfred Popke and Alfred Wing. They bagged a male and female, both of large size. There were eight in their hunting party who shared in the $40 bounty but there were many other hunters in the field.

Among the interested sportsmen were Dr. F. J. Pfeifer who joined in the chase for a short time Sunday afternoon and knocked one animal down with two shots but it got away. A. L. Severance of the First State bank accompanied him.

Hunters report the animals are extremely hard to bring down and five to seven rounds of buck shot are necessary to kill them. Several have been downed a couple of times only to get up again and run off.

Detention Camp Is Explained to Club

R. D. Fisher, Park Board Directors, Is Rotary Speaker

New London—The operation, purpose and aims of the Outagamie county detention camp in the town of Bovina was explained to the New London Rotary club at the Elwood hotel yesterday noon by R. D. Fisher, Shioclon, a director of the county park board.

Commitment to the camp may cost the county slightly more than confinement in jail but the beneficial effects to the persons involved more than justify its operation, Fisher said. He cited several cases where individuals were converted from criminal tendencies which would have been strengthened had they been committed to jail or prison.

The camp is the only of its kind in the state and consists of a 140-acre tract where prisoners are kept busy at farming and reforestation. One Appleton judge has remarked that payment of fines for misdemeanors has increased because they would rather pay the fine than go to work on the farm, whereas they otherwise might be content to go to jail, the speaker said.

At the business meeting the club discussed possible means of improving the sixteenth annual Farmers' Night party next year.

A communication was read announcing that Rotary clubs in Italy were being disbanded.

The record gave the Tamers two wins over the Roarers while the Twisters took two from the Grovlers though losing out in total pins. 2,445 to 2,526. The Twisters had 786, 824 and 835 to 835, 788 and 803.

Pegler Goes to Yale Bowl But It Isn't Quite the Same

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER
New York—In some ways it was like old times at the Yale bowl Saturday afternoon and in other ways it wasn't.
Of course it rained, and that was like old times, but the football game itself was so much like the games that Harvard and Yale played yesterday that it might have been yesterday for a fact. The Harvards did a rugby trick consisting of a forward pass to a man who ran until he was tackled, and then, with a Yale embracing his knees, tossed the ball to another man who stretched the gain until he was knocked outside. The Harvards used to do that yesterday, catching the Yale flatfooted, and this seemed to be a revival of an old reel out of the archives.

After this gain the Harvards lose the ball on downs, and Johnny Garvey, of Yale, resumed his attacks at the line. Garvey gains four yards in a cut-back off tackle. Second down, six. It's Garvey off tackle again for three yards. Third down, three. Garvey picked up another yard off tackle. His interference interfered with him very nicely there, and it is now fourth down, two, and Yale punts to Harvard's 45-yard line.
"Come on, Garvey," your correspondent yelled at one point, and an old Yale blue sitting in the row behind poked your correspondent between the shoulders with the stem of his pipe and said, "That isn't Johnny Garvey. Garvey passed into the drifting mists of time ten years ago to join the heroic order of Yale immortals in the gridiron Valhalla. He is one of our ghosts of yesterday now, along with Frank Hinkle, Pudge Heffelfinger, Tom Shevlin and all that titanic crew."
"Well, it certainly looks like Garvey," your correspondent said. "Four yards off tackle, three yards off tackle, one yard off tackle with the interference holding like a wall and then the punt."
"Well, it isn't Garvey," the old Yale said. "It is Yale, rah!"
"But what about that Harvard rugby thing?" your correspondent asked. "This was French to Guarnaccia, wasn't it? Don't tell me that wasn't French to Guarnaccia."

Position of Yale Drunk Disappeared With Repeal
"No," said the old Yale, pulling a bath towel from under his neck and wringing a quart of rain into the cuffs of his pants—rather twenty-two pants. Something to go with a pipe and an old fishing hat. "No," he said, "It wasn't French to Guarnaccia. It was Harvard. Ruh! Ruh! Ruh! Hav-vud!"
"Now," said your correspondent at the intermission. "We will see the Yale drunk chase the squirrel across the field and score a touchdown with his hat."
"No," the old Yale said. "I am afraid you won't."
"No? Did he grow up?"
"I'm afraid not," he said. "They never grow up. They grow old, but not up. Sir, you have the honor of addressing the Yale varsity drunk of 1927, a year of tough competition, as you will remember; I caught the squirrel in my varsity year. I have old clippings from the Herald Tribune to prove it. It bit me and I bit it back. But other times, other ways. Where have you been keeping yourself, anyway? The position of Yale drunk was abolished when repeal came in."

Even The Bowl Itself Isn't Just As It Was
It seemed a great pity, nor was that the only change, although the fundamentals, such as the character of the play and the informal straggling of the bands remained the same. The old Harvards and Yales used to crowd the bowl come fair weather or foul. But now both ends were vacant and one could only indulge in melancholic speculation whether they now had too little money or too much sense to sit in the autumn rain at the game of games. Either explanation would be depressing, the first for obvious reasons, the latter because when people forget their harmless follies they turn too readily to grim and evil ones.
Anyway, it is still the same old Yale bowl, and that is a consolation. But it is really the old Yale

Union Service to Be Conducted at Emmanuel Church

Sodality to Repeat Play At St. Therese Hall Tonight

Because of the Thanksgiving holiday this week, church activities have been cut down to the minimum, the emphasis being on the worship services Thursday morning and thank offering services on other nights of the week.

In addition there will be services Wednesday night at First Congregational church and Trinity English Lutheran church, the Missionary society of First English Lutheran church will have a thank offering service this evening and there will be one Friday night at St. John Evangelical and Reformed church with the Rev. The Gospel temple will have a special prayer service at 7:45 Friday night, but there will be no service Thursday evening because of Thanksgiving. The Rev. R. E. Ziesemer, pastor of Mt. Olive Lutheran church, conducted a service last evening at Riverview sanatorium.
All Catholic churches in Appleton as well as in the Green Bay diocese received messages from the Most Rev. Paul P. Rhode, bishop, which were read at all masses Sunday morning, asking the pastors and faithful to pray especially that day for the cessation of religious and racial persecutions in European countries.

Several of the Protestant churches held Thanksgiving services last Sunday morning. At First Congregational church the various departments of the church school held their Thanksgiving service in the morning. At the regular morning service at the church Dr. John B. Hanna, pastor, preached on "The Life of Frances Willard." At First Methodist church Dr. Harry C. Culver, pastor, spoke on "When the Sky Falls In." Memorial Presbyterian church had a service of thanksgiving featuring processions to the altar with symbols of things for which to be thankful. The meditation was on "Thanksgiving—A Christian Festival."

First Church of Christ, Scientist. The following passage was read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The material body and mind are temporal, but the real man is spiritual and eternal. The identity of the real man is not lost, but found through this explanation; for the conscious infinitude of existence and of all identity is thereby discerned and remains unchanged. The science of being reveals man as perfect, even as the Father is perfect, because the soul or mind of the spiritual man is God, the divine principle of all being, and because this real man is governed by soul instead of sense, by the law of spirit, not by the so-called laws of matter."

High Cagers Open Season Tomorrow

Oppose Menasha St. Mary in New High School Gymnasium

LACK PRACTICE

Both Squads Have Been Drilling for Less Than 2 Weeks

APPLETON High school basketball team will open its season at 8:15 tomorrow evening at the new high school gymnasium with St. Mary of Menasha as the opponent. There will be a preliminary game between reserve squads of the two schools starting at 7 o'clock.

The game will be the first for both squads and while each will show a number of veteran cagers, neither team has had more than ten days of practice.

Appleton, built around three lettermen, gives indications of having five or six boys who play a pretty fair game but thereafter the talent is a question that only competition will answer.

Bill Besch, a forward and center last year, has been working at the pivot position again this season and handles himself quite well although his shooting has been off.

Veteran Guards
Bob Morris will show at one guard and Bob Bailey at the other. They are veterans with a lot of experience from last season. Morris is especially adept at dribbling and driving in to the hoop. Bailey is the bigger of the two boys and probably will play the back court.

The forwards will be Allen Fraser and Warren Buesing, members of last year's reserve team. They have plenty of weight and are fairly tall. Their ruggedness probably will result in a hard driving type of game but their shooting ability is still to be proved.

But after the regulars tire or get tossed out on personals, Coach Joe Shields isn't so certain of his talent. Don De Leest and Frank Kamp are guards but lack experience and De Leest is comparatively small. John Bick, who was expected to be a center, is ill and may not get back on the court this semester. Bud Werner and George Swamp have shown possibilities as forwards but lack experience.

Saints Have Veterans
Menasha St. Mary will have a veteran aggregation and a tall one. Only three boys from the first ten were lost to Coach Marv Miller.

Prunescu will be at center with Bill Resch and Picard at the guard positions. Laux and Romek are the probable starting forwards. The reserve talent shows Coenen, guard, Griesbach, guard, Schipfeling, forward, Koerner, forward, and Will, forward.

The game will be the first in Appleton's new gymnasium which will seat 2,000 or more persons. There are balcony seats on three sides of the gym and bleacher seats along each side of the court. A new electric score board and time clock have been secured and will be in use tomorrow night.

The reserve squad which will meet Menasha's reserves, will be picked by Coach Myrton Seims from about 15 performers.

SHAWANO AT EAST

Shawano — With ten days of intensive practice behind them, the Shawano Indians, 20 strong, will invade Green Bay East Wednesday night in the hope of repeating their victorious visit of last season. Coach Clifford Dilts indicated Monday that 19 or possibly 20 men will make the trip, and since the game is the first start and the only pre-season non-conference game, the likelihood is that the field will be wide open for experimentation.

The invading warriors will be led by three veterans of Shawano's state championship team. Urban Gottschalk, lanky forward, has two varsity years already behind him. Billy Reed, a sophomore guard, hung up a Northeastern conference scoring record last year, and Franklin (Jim) Schwaers, rangy center, developed into varsity caliber during the 1937-38 season. Although Coach Dilts made no definite statements about his starting line-up, practice sessions indicate that this trio is likely to start, along with Merle Cooper at the forward post and either Vern Rosenow or Har-

All-Stars Face Pittsburgh In Initial League Contest

Smile on Shields' Face Is Result of Weekend's Hunting

That big smile which graces the face of Coach Joe Shields of the high school landed there over the weekend when Joe got himself an 8-prong buck up near Tipler. The animal weighed about 180 pounds and Joe says an old woodsman said it was about 3 years old. The region is Nicolet national forest. It was the first deer Shields ever shot.

Other members of the party were Arnie Borschell, Chuck Schmidt, Owen Kuehler and Wallie Engles. They stayed at a camp where about 14 hunters were holding forth and, according to Shields, they saw numerous deer.

Two other Appleton hunters who reported deer were Norbert Klein and Clarence Coenen, residing on route 2, Appleton. Klein got his in the first hour after the hunting season opened. Frank Heiman, route 3, also was in the party.

Company D Contemplates Berth in Northern Division of League

Company D cagers are contemplating a berth in the Northern division of a National Guard league and preliminary organization of the northern circuit is expected to be completed during a meeting at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the armory. Wallie Klein has charge of organizing the basketball league.

The Southern division is already organized with Milwaukee, Janesville and other cities represented. Champions of the two divisions would tangle in a playoff at the end of the season for the championship of Wisconsin. The league was discussed at camp last summer and the idea met favor with all companies concerned.

The northern section would be composed of guard guards from Neenah, Menasha, Fond du Lac, Oshkosh, Marinette, Oconto, Waupaca, Rhinelander, Manitowish and Appleton. Action on officials and schedules will be taken at the meeting Sunday.

Company D edged out Kimberly, 24 to 17, in a tilt at the armory following drill last night. The Appleton team took an early lead and led most of the way. Fieblekorn paced the winners with eight points while Lang had six for Kimberly.

Dunn Sees Marquette Winning Final Contest

El Paso, Tex. — (AP) — Joe (Red) Dunn, Marquette University basketball coach, today held hopes for a Marquette victory as it closes its football season Saturday against undefeated and untied Texas Tech at Lubbock, Tex.

Dunn, who scouted the Raiders in their game against New Mexico last week, declared that "anything can happen. I think if our boys play up to their capabilities, Marquette will finish the season with a win."

Johnny Maltch was taking liquids through a glass tube because of a lip wound but will be able to play.

old Lahn as the other guard—subject to change without notice.

OSHKOSH—The opening game for the Oshkosh All Stars in the National Basketball league will be played Saturday evening, Nov. 26, at Oshkosh with a strong opponent — the Pittsburgh Pirates—as the foe in the curtain-raiser.

Pittsburgh, a member of the Eastern division of the National league, is expected to be a contender this season for championship honors, having retained its outstanding stars of last season and added Paul Birch, who completed two seasons with the famous New York Celtics. He was rated one of the greatest basketball players ever to don a uniform while at Duquesne university. At the conclusion of the 1935-36 season Birch was voted one of the all-time all-Pittsburgh players, ranking second only to Charley Hyatt of Pitt. He was All-American during the same year. Paul is 6 feet 2 inches tall, weighs 195 pounds, is fast, aggressive, and one of the outstanding shots in basketball.

Look For Win
The Oshkosh All Stars, after an eight-game pre-league schedule, will face the Pittsburgh Pirates undaunted Saturday evening. Hoping to duplicate its Western division championship and to go on to the National league title, the All Stars aggregation is prepared to battle for a win in its opening game.

Each of the eight teams in the circuit will play a 28-game schedule, 14 tilts at home and 14 away. In addition the All Stars will play a number of other contests—a total of 100 games being booked for the season—so that the Oshkosh cagers will be trained for whatever comes along.

The All Stars have eight veterans back from its last year's Western championship team and have added three new men. The newcomers are Scott Armstrong, formerly of Butler university; Emmett Birk, North Dakota university; and Cliff Burton, Lawrence college. Veterans are headed by All-American Ed Mullen, Marquette, a guard, and All-American "Lefty" Edwards, Kentucky, who scored 1,019 points last season. Others are Pete Preboski and Ray Hamann, Wisconsin; Frank Augie Vander Meulen, Carroll; and Herman Witasek, North Dakota university.

Eastern Stars
Besides Birch, the Pittsburgh Pirates have some of the better players from eastern collegiate circles in the past few years. Among them is Hy Ginsberg, who was honored with an All-East selection in 1935 while at Geneva college.

Duquesne university is represented by some of its outstanding stars in Walt Miller, one of the outstanding pivot men in the National league; Erney Fortney, Herb Bonn, Marty Reiter, Dudley Moore and Joe O'Malley. An All-East selection in 1937 was Billy Jesko who starred three years at the University of Pittsburgh. He is a great shot, holding a record that can hardly be equaled. In three successive games he made 27 field goals of a total of 31 shots taken, all from outside the free throw circle.

Last season the Pirates hung up 41 victories as compared to 11 defeats. Seven of those defeats were in National league competition. The Pirates defeated the Celtics in two straight games, a feat that is rarely performed by any team. Oshkosh broke even with the Celtics in two games last season.

Armstrong Favored in Battle With Garcia

New York — (AP) — Although Henry Armstrong will be giving away ten pounds when he defends the welterweight title against Ceferino Garcia at Madison Square Garden Friday, it doesn't show in the odds. The prizefighters, disregarding the poundage as well as Armstrong's recent injury and reports that his lips haven't fully healed from the chopping they received when Henry fought Lou Ambers, have made him a 5 to 8 favorite to retain the crown.

The betting is 25 to 1 that Garcia will not win by a knockout, and the boys who lay the odds figure that's the only way he can win.

Pro Gridders Draw Over Million Fans

129,000 Persons Saw Contests in One Day This Fall

New York — (AP) — Among those who will join in the spirit of Thanksgiving this week are the owners of the 10 clubs in the National Professional Football league. They are a singularly well-fed set of gentlemen, with a business that is flourishing beyond their wildest dreams of a few years ago.

Already this season they have netted 1,016,255 cash customers to their games, and there still are seven league contests to be played, not counting the big play-off between the Eastern and Western divisions of the league. Last year's total attendance was only slightly over 1,000,000 and that was a record.

The money game is booming everywhere. At least five clubs already have set new individual crowd marks. They are Detroit, Green Bay, Cleveland, Washington, and Philadelphia. On one day this fall 129,000 persons paid their way into the professional stadiums.

The two games that have created the most excitement here this season were those between Army and Notre Dame, which drew some 70,000 to Yankee Stadium, and between the Giants and Green Bay, which was seen by 48,000 at the Polo Grounds. In other words, it took one of the greatest of the college "traditional" rivalries to outdraw the pros.

Clay Pigeon Range Is Built at Leonard's

A clay pigeon shooting range has been built at Leonard's on Highway 125 near Butte des Morts golf club and is open for use, it was announced today. Plans are to have a demonstration soon with L. W. Johnson and his wife of Waupaca, nationally known shots, showing how it's done. Other plans for the winter are a skating rink and a toboggan slide.

Marquette Puck Team Is Seeking New Name

Marquette, Mich. — (AP) — Marquette's hockey team of the Northern Wisconsin-Michigan league doesn't like being called the "Millionaires" and is looking for a new name as the 1938-39 season approaches.

The city hockey committee is sponsoring a contest to produce a new nickname and plans to make a choice Dec. 5 from the entries. Al Jacobson, former league referee, has abandoned his whistle to become coach and manager of the Marquette sextet. The team meets Painesdale, 1936-37 champion, here, Dec. 15 in the season opener.

The same five clubs which made up the circuit last season will vie for the gonfalon this winter. Besides Marquette and Painesdale, other clubs in the league are the Calumet-Laurium Olympics, 1937-38 champions; Portage Lake and the single Wisconsin entry, Eagle River.

Ducks were awarded to the following men who had tops scores for their respective teams: Cleborne Van Abel, Don Pagel, Dr. William Keller, Joe Theiss, Al Stoebauer, Dr. Stephen Konz, Lloyd Kettenhoven, Marty Hupka, Richard Mahony, William Schiedermayer, William Conrad, Jr., Walter Fountain, Matt Weyenberg, R. Bieseman, Ed Mollen and Hy Otto.

Green Bay Packers Hang Up New Pro League Mark of 223 Points

Another new record can be established Sunday by the Chicago Cardinals who have completed 104 passes in 224 tosses, an average of 46 per cent. By completing five passes against Cleveland next Sunday, the Cardinals will surpass the record of 103 completions made by Green Bay in 1936. The New York Giants are well on the way to a new league efficiency mark for forward passing, leading the league at present with 76 out of 147 for 51 per cent. This is 5 per cent better than the mark established by Brooklyn in 1933. Washington is third in passing with 90 out of 190 for 45 per cent.

The Chicago Bears overtook New York for third in ground gaining with a 275-yard average per game. Washington leads with a 281-yard average and Green Bay is second with a 276-yard average. The Bears are second in scoring with 107 points and the Giants third with 151 points. The Giants have the best defensive record, having held opponents to 173 yards and 72 points in nine games.

Billy Lee, Breese in Draw at Milwaukee

Milwaukee—(AP)—Indian Billy Lee of Reno, Nev., and Quentin (Baby Face) Breese of Manhattan, Kas., lightweights, fought to an 8-round draw in a return boxing match here last night. Breese won a booed decision a week ago.

Infighting featured the first five rounds, but both men opened up in the sixth. Lee scoring with lefts to the face which Breese took to land roundhouse rights. Lee weighed 142, Breese 138.

George Henry, Milwaukee, 144, won the decision over Phil McQuillan, 143, Chicago, in the eight-round semi-windup. In one of the preliminaries, Frank Gaudes, 129, Milwaukee, knocked out Bishop Johnson, 126, Chicago, with the first punch in the first round.

Wolves From The Door

By Ruell Patterson
THERE is tragedy encountered by some in keeping the wolf from the door, but there is a lot of sport for the winter hunter doing just that. Wolves have been getting more numerous in some regions the last few years, and there are enough of them in the middle west to make wolf hunting a major outdoor sport these days. It is a sport which combines business with pleasure because of the bounties offered for dead wolves and the value of their pelts. It is a sport which rids a community of one of the most deadly enemies to small game, deer, and game birds.

It is true that many of the reported wolves of our central states are nothing more than coyotes, but even these coyotes can furnish sport and pay dividends in thrills as well as the pocket. They are also great destroyers of animal and bird life. Either wolves or coyotes give a hunter plenty of action, and since both are as smart as any denizens of the wilds it takes skill to hunt them successfully.

Found in Cut-Over Land
In Minnesota, Michigan, and Wisconsin the best hunting localities for wolves are usually those cut-over lands which have developed a fairly heavy second growth. This country is more sporty for this type of hunting than the flat lands. Wolves are wise enough to want to come up to a rise of ground for a view of the surroundings and the opportunity to spot either enemies or prospective victims.

A hunter with sufficient patience can hide in a wolf or coyote-infested country and lie in wait for an animal to appear. This is a tedious pastime under most circumstances and may bring no results. It is more profitable to go out with trained dogs and drive over the territory where wolves or coyote signs have been seen.

Hunting with Dogs Surest
Some hunters will have nothing to do with a wolf if sent out alone, but if in a pack with an Airfaire or two to contribute the fighting factor, they will usually follow the scent. The writer has had the most success with deer hounds or large fox hounds. They are keen on the trail and skilful enough to drive a wolf in a circle so that the hunter can get a shot. Occasionally a wolf will wreck havoc with his wicked slashing attack if the hounds get too close, but the alert hunter can usually get up in time to prevent any serious damage. If there are Airedales in the pack, they will give a wolf plenty of battle to keep him from tearing up the hounds. Airedales are able to keep pretty well up and enjoy the chase. They are extremely valuable in a tight spot.

Wolves Very Clever
Wolves and coyotes are very clever when they find they are pursued and will lead the pack a merry chase. Frequently the wolf will back track to watch his pursuers. He seems to enjoy putting his skill against the trailers and shows many cunning moves such as crossing his own track, circling, and following rocky ground where it is hard to pick up the scent. He will also take great leaps to break the track and will often head for water to throw the dogs off. Sometimes he will speed ahead and then stop and rest until his feet get near.

Wolf hunting is sport at its best for it pits man's ability against one of the greatest killers. It takes a good shot to bring down a wolf and requires patience and stamina for the course a wolf takes overland is sometimes a long, hard one. The thrill of bagging a wolf is ample reward for any hardship.

Football Squad Praises Zupke for His Efforts

Champaign, Ill. — (AP) — Robert Zupke, target of recent ouster attacks in his 26th year as football coach of the University of Illinois, cherished a vote of confidence today from his 1938 squad.

"We're behind you 100 per cent and think you're the finest guy we've ever known," said retiring Captain Jim McDonald at the annual Rotary club football banquet last night. He presented Zupke with a pen and pencil set on behalf of the squad.

"We players have been out with Zup every day, often more than any of the 'wolves' who are sitting back on their heels and howling for his scalp," McDonald continued. "We can appreciate him better than others. We realize Zup's shortcomings, but we also realize the rich advantages we've derived from him."

Mel Brewer, junior quarterback from Carbondale, Ill., was elected captain of the 1939 team and James Hodges, senior guard from Rock Island, Ill., was named the most valuable man this season. Twenty-nine letters were awarded, 10 each to juniors and sophomores and nine to seniors.

Kimberly Will Invade Little Chute Friday

Little Chute — St. John High school varsity cagers will swing into their first game Friday night on their home court with the Kimberly "Red Devils," last year's Class C champions. The papermakers again will have a formidable squad to represent them in the Little Nine conference. The game at Little Chute is the first in a home and home series with St. John returning to Kimberly Tuesday, Nov. 29.

It will be a non-conference series and the "B" squads will clash in the preliminary at 7:15, with the varsity at 8:15.

The invaders, coached by Ray Hammann, member of the Oshkosh All-Stars, will be strong with six lettermen back and strong reserve power. Coach Ernie Miron only has three regulars to build a team around.

St. John opens Catholic conference play Dec. 2 at Oshkosh, meeting St. Peter High. The first conference tilt on the home court will be against St. Norbert's Dec. 5.

A. A. Cagers to Play Oshkosh Preliminary

Little Chute — The Little Chute Athletic association cage squad will play its opening game of the year at Oshkosh Saturday night against the Oshkosh Cougars. The game will be a preliminary to the All Star-Pittsburgh game.

The A.A. squad played under the name of the Little Chute American Legion last year and capped the Outagamie County league title.

The A.A.'s have added two new players to their lineup, Don Peeters and Joe Versteeg, while Ralph Wildenberg, a veteran, has hung up his suit after several years of action.

The lineup will show Lefty Wildenberg, Don Peeters or Beany Bongers at forward positions, Orville Bongers and Moose Van Dyke alternating at the pivot position, and Joey Versteeg, Tony Jansen and Ernie Versteeg alternating at guard.

Games can be arranged with the A.A. team by calling or writing Emil Van Dyke, Little Chute, Wis.

Farley Confers With Democrats

New York — (AP) — Eastern and southern Democratic leaders, with an eye toward 1940, probed deeper into the party's election day wounds as they resumed secret consultations today with James A. Farley, national committee chairman.

Farley planned to conclude his two-day diagnosis of the political situation with a select number of outstanding leaders among the national committeemen and state organization leaders from 21 states who began the conferences yesterday.

Early next week he will meet in Chicago with Democratic leaders from states west of the Mississippi.

He said the talks were partly to "clear up any misunderstandings within the party that may exist." Lacking amplification, this was generally taken as a reference to after effects of president Roosevelt's "purge" campaign in the Democratic primaries.

Another subject of discussion was the recently-launched campaign of Mayor F. H. LaGuardia of New York to unite "the progressive forces" of the country.

A city hall spokesman said the mayor was consulting with other Progressives on the advisability of bringing pressure on the Democrats to make their party the Progressives' "medium of expression."

However, before reports of the Democratic meetings were published, the spokesman said "the mayor doesn't even know they are here."

Yale Coaching Staff Is Retained for 1939

New Haven, Conn. — (AP) — Raymond W. (Ducky) Pond, Yale head coach, and his staff of football mentors, turned to winter activities today secure in the knowledge they would be retained for the 1939 season.

Their reappointment was announced yesterday by Chairman Malcolm Farmer of the Yale Athletic association. Alumni had criticized the season's record—six defeats in eight games—the worst in 67 years of Eli gridiron history.

Anna Marie Hahn Expects Reprieve

Columbus, Ohio—(AP)—Anna Marie Hahn, condemned to die in the electric chair Dec. 7, talked today of the future.

But the future, as she visualizes it, is not death; it is "when I am in Marysville."

Thus she expressed her hope that Gov. Martin L. Davey would not let her become the first woman electrocuted by the state of Ohio, through commutation of sentence to life imprisonment in the Marysville State Reformatory for Women.

Mrs. Hahn was convicted of the poison-slaying of 78-year-old Jacob Wagner of Cincinnati and was accused of killing three other men in an alleged "murder for profit" scheme.

The 32-year-old Bavarian-born prisoner talked cheerfully as she greeted the press for the second time since she entered Ohio penitentiary Dec. 1. She wore no makeup, but her blonde hair was carefully waved and her nails were perfectly manicured. She sat in a rocking chair in her special "death row" cell.

"I wouldn't change places with anybody in the world," she mused. "I've had a much fuller life than anyone knows of," she explained. "I'm at peace with the world. I know in my own heart I've never done anything wrong, and that's the only thing important."

"I am not afraid to die," she reiterated. Her only concern seemed to be for her 12-year-old son, Oscar.

"I wish I had that $75,000 the police in Cincinnati said I had," she said. "Actually I haven't a cent in the world. That was just another one of the thousands of lies."

President Ready for Restful Two Weeks

Warm Springs, Ga. — (AP) — President Roosevelt, back at his "other home" on Pine mountain, mapped plans today for a restful two weeks in preparation for the busy congress days ahead.

Secretary Marvin McIntyre, who accompanied him here with a large working staff last night from Chattanooga, Tenn., said not a single business appointment had been made as yet, but this did not mean there would be none.

Regardless of developments, however, the "event" of the president's stay will come Thursday night when he and Mrs. Roosevelt will be hosts at a Thanksgiving turkey dinner to children undergoing treatment for infantile paralysis at the Warm Springs Foundation.

SALARY INCREASE

Buffalo, N. Y. — (AP) — Whether Mayor Thomas L. Holling likes it or not, he may have to take his full salary of $12,000 this fiscal year instead of $9,600.

Last year the Buffalo mayor slashed his own salary voluntarily to $9,600 from $12,000. This fall an auditing firm, revising city employees' salaries, recommended widespread decreases and concluded by declaring the mayor's salary should be immediately restored to $12,000.

GOOD THINGS FOR THE HOME

Marie Schneider's Tested Recipes

PREPARING THE TURKEY

For the sake of brides and inexperienced housekeepers who are entertaining friends or family, this Thanksgiving for the first time, I am going to describe some of the little tricks to use when roasting turkey, chicken, goose or duck, to make it just perfect.

Probably you have seen your mothers prepare a turkey or other poultry many times, and perhaps you thought you knew just how they did it. But now that you are faced with the job of doing it all by yourself, you find there are many little points that you don't seem to remember.

Roast Turkey

The first thing to do to prepare a turkey for roasting is to singe it, to remove the hairs, and then pluck out the pin feathers. Clean the inside of the turkey thoroughly, washing it and then drying it with a clean cloth. Then place the stuffing in the body cavity and also in the crop cavity near the neck. Do not pack the stuffing in too tightly as it swells during the roasting. Sew up the incisions with a very large eyed needle threaded with cord or insert toothpicks across opening and lace twine around them. The end of legs together with strong cord. Bring cord down around tailpiece and forward over tips of wings, tie across the back. This holds it in shape.

Cover turkey with a coating of butter and lard or other shortening, so that it will be all beautifully browned, with the outside not only brown but crispy. Now we dredge it with flour mixed with salt and pepper. Then the bird is ready to go into the oven.

Be sure to allow plenty of time for roasting your turkey. You place it in an uncovered roasting pan in a very hot oven 475 degrees F. for about 25 minutes, until light brown. Then reduce the oven heat to moderate 350 degrees F. Cover and roast 3 1/2 hours or until it is tender. Baste every 15 minutes, using a mixture of 1 cup fat in 1 cup boiling water.

Roast Chicken

Clean, singe, prepare and stuff chicken as for roast turkey. Place in roaster with two tablespoons fat. Put in a hot oven 475 degrees F. until brown, reduce heat to a slow oven 325 degrees F. basting frequently, adding a little water if necessary to prevent burning. When the breast meat is tender it is done. A 4 pound chicken requires about 2 1/2 hours.

Roast Duck or Goose

Clean and prepare the same as for roast turkey. Season with salt and pepper. Place in a roasting pan with 2 tablespoons fat. Set in a hot oven 475 degrees F. for 15 minutes. Reduce heat to 325 degrees F. Cover and baste every 15 minutes until fowl is tender. Roast from 2 to 4 hours.

Bread Dressing

2 cups fine dry 1 cup melted butter 1 teaspoon salt
Add melted butter and salt to bread crumbs and mix well.

My Neighbor Says—

The purple-leaved wandering Jew, or zebra plant, is an excellent vine which will last many months if planted in water in the house. It has pink blossoms which open in the sun. The philodendron is a fine foliage plant to be grown indoors, with its sturdy, dark-green leaves, and graceful, springing vines. Upright plants, such as the sansevieria may also be used in hanging baskets by lengthening the chain of the basket to accommodate upright growth.

Cooking dough stored in a refrigerator often becomes hardened on the surface. To prevent this sprinkle the dough with cold water and wrap it tightly in waxed paper before you store it.

CASE RECORDS OF A PSYCHOLOGIST

By Dr. George W. Crane
Psychologist, Northwestern University

If you wanted to invest $4,000 to best advantage for a child, how would you do it? Well, it is far better to sink it in his education before he is 6 years of age than to use it for his college training!

CASE L-174; Elaine B., aged 3, is an attractive child.

"I have read your frequent advice about sending children to nursery school," her mother began.

"But I wonder if all children should attend a nursery school, or are some discriminations wise?"

"Dr. Crane, we don't live in the best kind of neighborhood and I hesitate to send Elaine among children who aren't our type. What do you advise?"

DIAGNOSIS:
"I am very much in favor of nursery schools, especially where children don't have several brothers and sisters to play with."

In the country and our small towns, it is still possible for toddlers to run loose and play with neighborhood children. But in our cities this is seldom safe or even possible.

In cities, therefore, it is essential that children be thrown with others of nearly their own age, at least as early as the nursery school will admit them, which is from 2 1/2 to 3 years of age.

One drawback to nursery schools is the fact that they are usually private and hence charge tuition. But people with only one youngster have more money than those with three or four, so they can better afford to pay the small weekly fee.

In fact, I wish our city churches would run large nursery schools and thereby utilize the strategically situated church buildings for additional productive purposes.

Make Your Church More Productive
Church edifices are tax exempt. They occupy choice sites. Except for Sunday and midweek meetings an afternoon ladies' aid session, the men's club meeting, and the Friday Scout meeting, the building is usually idle.

In short, that valuable property is functioning only about 12 to 15 hours out of every 7 days. That is highly inefficient. It ought to be functioning at least 25 to 30 hours per week.

An office building or factory, even on our shortened working week, is open for business 40 to 50 hours in only a 5-day or 6-day week.

A church nursery school would also aid the youngsters who have no brothers or sisters; would free mothers from the constant strain of having their children at their heels, and would bring extra revenue in to the ladies' aid budget.

There are enough trained women in every church to operate the nursery school properly. They could alternate with one another so no woman had to work excessively long.

A Warning to Nursery Schools
One of the greatest faults of nursery schools today, however, is the fact that they try to imitate kindergarten and first grade of the grammar school.

Then, when youngsters reach first grade, thinking they have grown up and are now in "regular" school, they grow irritable and disappointed because they are "doing

Makes Bid by Holding Off Lead in Trump

BY ELY CULBERTSON
Last Tuesday's Question

Question 33: With only East-West vulnerable, the bidding proceeds:

West North East South
1 spade Pass Pass ?
You are South and hold:

10 5 ♠ A J 8 ♣ K 10 9 8 4 ♠ K 10 3
What call do you make?

Answer: You should double. True, you have only two-plus honors, but these are sufficient for a double in this particular position, i. e., after the one spade bid has been passed all around. It is quite possible that partner (North) is anxious to play against one spade doubled, and since the opponents are vulnerable, if he chooses to convert your double into the penalty variety by passing, a substantial penalty should result. (Ten points demerit for two diamonds; 15 points demerit for passing; 25 points demerit for any other call.)

TODAY'S QUESTION
Question 38: You are West, defending against three no trump. Your hand and dummy are as follows:

Dummy
♠ 6 3 2
♦ A J 10 9 5
♣ 8 4 3

You West
♠ Q 10 9 8 5
♥ Q 6
♦ K 6 2
♣ K 10 7

You originally led the spade ten. Your partner played the seven and declarer won with the jack. Now declarer leads the diamond seven. What card do you (West) play, and why?

TODAY'S HAND
East, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

♥ 9 7 4
♦ A Q 10 5
♣ K 9 8 5

SOUTH
♠ A K 7 2

♦ None
♣ Q J 10 7 3 2

The bidding:
East South West North
1 heart Double Pass 2 diamonds
Pass 3 clubs Pass 4 clubs
Pass 4 spades Pass 5 clubs (final bid)

West opened the three of hearts. East won with the ace and promptly returned the heart jack. Declarer won with the king and, instead of hitting leading trumps, considered the implications of the first two tricks. It was completely obvious that West originally had held a doubleton heart. East had bid the suit and West had opened the three spot, playing the deuce to the next trick. Since East must have started with at least four hearts, West's three undoubtedly was his top card and the deuce his only remaining heart. The ace of clubs was marked in East's hand because of the opening bid. If declarer now led a trump, East would win and return another heart. If West had started with two clubs (which was very likely, since he was short of hearts) declarer's heart queen would be ruffed away for defenders' third trick.

Certainly there was nothing very difficult about this reasoning and, once having reached the proper conclusion, declarer went about protecting himself. Instead of leading a trump, he cashed the ace and king of spades, then ruffed a spade with dummy's club eight. The diamond ace then was cashed and declarer discarded his good heart queen. Only after that white elephant had been discarded did declarer lead a trump. East's ace won and a heart was returned, but now it was a simple matter for declarer to ruff in with a high trump and the rest of the play was automatic.

TOMORROW'S HAND

When putting up preserves, use only new rubbers on the openings and check lids and jars closely to be sure they are airtight.

I saw some old stuff we did in nursery school and kindergarten.

A nursery school's primary purpose is to throw children together so they can play, fight and compromise, until they learn some selfishness in the actual crucible of a social environment.

Nursery schools are not supposed to teach writing or reading, though they often do so, partly because paying parents must be shown that their young hopefuls are getting somewhere, educationally. Avoid this pitfall. A nursery school should be simply a socializing laboratory, not a classroom!

Dr. Crane will give personal attention to questions on psychological problems. Write him, in care of this newspaper, enclosing a 3-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply. Letters and readers' names are never published.

Husband, Wife Rarely Realizes What the Other Is Up Against

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix—I have a boy of 4 and twin daughters 11 months old. I do all my cooking, washing and babytending. My husband has been in the way of criticizing me because my work was never done and I was always worn out. "I could take care of the children and do the housework and do everything you do without any trouble at all," he continually asserted. Finally I called his bluff and we arranged that on the following Sunday we would swap places. So Sunday morning I slept late and let him get breakfast and wrestle with the babies. I leisurely dressed and went to church and lingered afterward talking to friends. When I got home I smelled burning roast and heard the babies' wails and the howls of Sonny, who was being spanked for waking them. But I didn't go near the kitchen. I tiptoed out and took a ride in the automobile and didn't return until he had a chance to get his dinner ready. After dinner I announced I was going to visit a sick friend and off I went again, without a glance at the dishes piled in the sink. When I returned, late in the afternoon, I found everything cleaned up and the babies asleep, but a husband who looked like he was on the verge of nervous prostration. I told him how well he had managed, adding: "Of course, Sunday is a light day, no cleaning, washing or ironing to do, but this has worked out so well, consider how mean and cruel this is to you, nor how injurious it is to the children."

There are many women who intentionally or otherwise, alienate their children from their fathers. They never let Father hold the baby. They never let Father take little Johnny for a walk by himself. They never let Father and the kids get acquainted. They always interfere with Father's suggestions. They teach the children to dislike Father by holding him over them as a menace. It is always "I'll tell your father on you if you do this or that."

And, on the contrary, they represent themselves as the only ones who care for the children's happiness and pleasure. "I'll get your father to give you so-and-so."

Women who let their mother-jalousy shut their children's father out of their lives do them the greatest possible wrong, for there comes a time in every youngster's life when he needs the strong and tender hand of a father to guide him, and if Mother has built an impassable barrier between the two, the child loses out. If God hadn't thought that children needed two parents, He wouldn't have given them both a mother and a father. (Copyright, 1938)

The husband pictures the wife as idling around the house, reading the paper or listening to the radio, or gossiping with a neighbor, while the children act like perfect angels, and floors get automatically swept and beds made, and delicious meals appear magically on the table. The wife pictures the husband as spending his days as a sort of perpetual picnic at places where there is always something exciting happening; where people are coming and going and telling each other funny stories and taking each other out to lunch, and somehow getting paid for having a good time.

With these false ideas of each other's work in their minds, it is no wonder that husbands and wives have so little sympathy with each other. The man can't see why his wife is always complaining of being overworked and being too tired to do herself up of an evening when she has nothing to do but take care of the children and do the housework. And the woman can't see why her husband, who has just been downtown all day, comes home nervous and cross, grouchy and so weary he refuses to step out with her to a night club.

But one day of doing his wife's work and wrestling with pots and pans, crying babies and fighting children would make any man look upon his wife as a marvel of efficiency and endurance. One day of being badgered by a cantankerous boss, dealing with cranky customers and wondering how a note in the bank is going to be met would make any woman understand why a husband's overtaxed nerves give way sometimes at home, why he wants to doze in peace behind his paper of an evening instead of carrying on a brilliant conversation.

Dear Miss Dix—I have been married ten years and I am the father of two children. I have a beautiful home that should be a happy one, except that my wife wants to have sole control of the children's religious training, where they shall go, what they shall eat, what they shall wear, and this makes a regular hell in our house. I'm a domestic man. I don't drink, use bad language or run around at night. I am crazy about my children and they are about me, but my wife won't let me have anything to do with their rearing. Everything I suggest is wrong. She never lets me take them out by myself and apparently thinks that all I am good for is to pay the bills. What can I do about it?

AN UNHAPPY FATHER.

Answer: I don't know unless you have the backbone to stand up and fight her to a finish and assert your rights as a father. But taking cubs away from a tigress is no more difficult an undertaking than getting a possessive mother to relinquish a single particle of her monopoly of her child.

Your wife is determined to be all-in-all to her children and to exclude you as far as possible. She wants them to depend upon her for everything and in every way. She wants to be the sole authority in their lives. And she doesn't stop to consider more convenient, from wherever the bride is living.

THE ARMY POST MURDERS

By Virginia Hanson

Chapter One
The Stranger's Face
HE book was dull I dropped it, consulted my wrist watch to find that another hour must be killed somehow and turned to the train window. Cornfields were wheeling monotonously past, miles upon miles of them, green-gold under the violent sun, their patterned rows riffling like an indifferently opening fan, their endless aisles leading from nowhere to nowhere across a fertile desert. An occasional black dirt road flashed by, innocent of travelers, a gash in the green landscape that the fields rushed backward to cover.

My hypnotized eyes were beginning to close when something drew them away from the window, back to the nearly empty car. The girl across the aisle was watching me again. She glanced quickly away, but not before I had seen that she was staring at my ring—the diamond-set miniature of his classing ring that Charlie had given me the summer before.

I studied her intently for a moment, trying again to solve the tantalizing familiarity that had bothered me when I first noticed her, just out of Chicago. She was older than I, near thirty, I thought; but it was difficult to judge, for she looked ill, or in trouble. She was thin and pale, her hair and skin the same lifeless beige, her light blue eyes shadowed by dark circles. Her clothes were of good material, but poorly assembled, as if they were a matter of indifference to the wearer.

No, I decided, I did not know her. I had been misled by a chance resemblance.

She grew tense under my scrutiny. I turned back to the window, feeling vaguely sorry for her, wondering about that elusive resemblance; wondering, too, what she knew about a West Point miniature, or whether she had merely been thinking it an outlandish sort of an engagement ring.

The cornfields were still circling past like huge, fantastic merry-go-rounds. I closed my eyes against the glare and yielded to the soporific rhythm of the clackety-clack, clackety-clack that was going on under my feet.

Some time later the porter shook me awake. We were pulling into a shabby town. As I stepped down to the platform I saw the girl again. She was ahead of me, just disappearing into the small station.

There are moments of intelligence that defy all rational explanation of the workings of the human mind. I stepped off the train that midsummer afternoon, saw the strange girl vanish into the waiting room, saw Elizabeth coming to meet me alone; and complete though formless advance knowledge was given me of the horrors of the dreadful night ahead for us all. I halted, terrified by the silent urging of something for me to go back.

Fort Ben Havens
The impulse to head that voice was so strong that I half turned back to the waiting train. The porter was picking up his step.

"Lose something, miss?"
"—no. It's nothing. . . ."

He touched his cap, swung onto the slowly moving car, swayed after him hopelessly, badly shaken by my desire to run shouting along the platform, to race the gathering speed of the train, to be pulled aboard.

What on earth would Elizabeth think of such a performance? I smiled involuntarily and turned to meet her innocent answering smile.

"I'm so glad you could come," she said warmly, taking determined possession of my suitcase with her invariable, insistent courtesy which is impossible to resist, and leading me to a shiny little black coupe that I had never seen before.

"A birthday present," she explained, showing it off to me with childlike pride. "I've had it for two weeks. I've already driven it to town several times alone, so I told Mr. Spencer not to bother about getting excused from duty so he could drive you. The men are all so busy, with one thing and another," she added vaguely.

The explanation was plausible and my moment of prescience had vanished. I settled myself in the car with the sensible reflection that if Charlie were up to anything I might as well find it out now as later.

For the next five miles my forebodings took a new direction. At first I tried to chatter nonchalantly, but Elizabeth's answers were monosyllables delivered from the corner of her mouth with such an air of painful concentration that I was glad to take the hint and turn my attention to the road. This, fortunately, was graveled and smooth, for we attacked it with all the furor of a terrier worrying a large snake. We rocked and bucked, the road rolled on and straightened while we charged onward, the hot, dry wind swirling backward, the dust of our passage.

Elizabeth's face, palely erect, her blue eyes boring into both hands on the wheel, elbows well in. Her face was the look of firm kindness I had seen when she was gentling a nervous horse. I swallowed a hysterical giggle and clutched the side of the car as we slid past a truck, one wheel kicking at the rim of the ditch.

A quarter of a mile farther on we turned on two wheels through the open gate, narrowly missing a deft-footed stevedore, and entered the post.

Fort Ben Havens is one of those familiar rectangular communities that dot the prairies of the Middle West. The nearest passenger trains stop at the village five miles distant and except for a few scattered dwellings and a general store the spiked iron fence shuts out only fields and fields of nodding corn.

In contrast to the surrounding country, the post itself is as sleek and groomed as a city park. We had entered at one end of the rectangle. Ahead of us stretched the smooth turf of the parade grounds; facing it on the right was the long row of barracks, on the left the officers' quarters; beyond, at the far end of the plain, the flag floated high above headquarters, nucleus of a little group of buildings that included the Officers' Club, the chapel, the Post Exchange and the Service Club.

Sanctuary
An occasional khaki-clad figure crossed my field of vision, but otherwise the post seemed deserted. Elizabeth negotiated an abrupt turn, halted the car in its tracks, and the hush of the summer afternoon closed about us.

Colonel Wright's quarters stood in majestic isolation at the near

Winnebago Board Votes Approval of Plan for Beltline

Commission's Proposed Route Includes New Span for Lake

Oshkosh—The Winnebago county board late yesterday afternoon took the first step toward extending Highway 41 beltline around the city of Oshkosh when it approved the route suggested by the state highway commission. The vote was 27 to 16.

County Highway Commissioner T. M. Bird explained that the proposed route would connect with the Highway 41 beltline around Neenah at its intersection with the old route, then proceed along what is known as the Dixie road to Brooks corners five miles north of Oshkosh. From there it will go in a southeasterly direction toward Sunset Point across Lake Butte des Morts to join County Trunk CC running straight south to the Winnebago county line.

Bridge Needed

Bird said a 700 foot bridge across the lake would probably suffice as the rest of the distance across the lake could be filled in, according to present plans of the commission. The cost of the project was estimated at about $2,500,000.

Bird declared that should Fond du Lac county not decide to join in the project, the commission may decide to build from Neenah to Oshkosh anyway. No action was taken today on financing the project, it being explained that could be decided when the state has the funds available. D. F. Culbertson, division highway engineer, said the cost would include the bridge and all right of way necessary. He said costs could be met by federal, state and county money, the county's share to come from allotments of state aid and not to be raised from additional taxes in the county.

41 To Be Improved

He said Winnebago county could speed up completion of the road by issuing bonds to pay the cost in bulk. Culbertson added the present Highway 41 would not be abandoned but would continue as the main highway until the beltline is completed.

He said his commission favors improving the present Highway 41 by increasing the width to 22 feet with black top surfacing. Culbertson stated the super-highway could be completed in two years if Winnebago county would issue bonds to speed financing but that it is handled piecemeal as federal and state moneys are available the project will extend over a period of years.

Bird said the new beltline as approved today will be about 21 miles long and will consist of a single lane 22 feet wide for the present.

Bird appeared before the board yesterday afternoon and gave his annual report of the highway department. After the report was made, Supervisor E. F. Dornbrook, first ward, Menasha, criticized the highway department on its snow removal work in the town of Menasha, in the neighborhood of the old Manitowoc road, just outside of the city limits of Menasha.

"Last winter," Dornbrook, stated, "the people living on this road were unable to get through after the snowfalls. There are two or three creameries and many people who send about 25 children to school living on this road. That town of Menasha road was piled with snow while all of the other county roads were kept clean. I feel that the north end of the county deserves the same consideration as those living around Oshkosh."

Dornbrook's remarks were made after Supervisor J. B. Derby of the town of Menasha asked Bird whether or not the county would accept the offer of the county to allow one of the county trucks to be stored in his garage.

Arrangement Made

Supervisor Derby stated that it was his contention that these people living in that area were constantly complaining of one thing or another. Derby also stated that an arrangement had been made with Bird for the coming winter to see that the road will be kept open.

The town of Menasha is making arrangements to purchase a snow plow for the town and had asked the highway commission to provide aid in keeping the road free from snow. It was further pointed out by Bird that the drivers of the trucks in that section were somewhat to blame for last year's laxity in snow removal. Dornbrook closed the argument with the statement that "I am being definitely shown that I am wrong."

An application from Sheridan Johnson, Appleton, asking the right to operate a dance hall at the Valley Gardens, just south-west of Neenah, was temporarily tabled. Chairman Jerry Shea stated in doing so that another problem in regard to the dance-hall was in the offing. Some of the county Grange association voiced disapproval of the $25 license fee which they had to pay in order to hold a dance at their Grange hall. These Granges are in favor of a $5 permit in view of the fact that taverns are allowed to let their patrons

Chester Bisel, Center street, returned from near Florence this morning with a 180-pound buck. Other Neenah men who got bucks were Fred Miller who shot a 200-pound deer, Claude Sharron, and Richard Kronberg.

ADOPT NEW ROUTE FOR HIGHWAY 41

This map shows the location of new Highway 41 through Winnebago county as adopted by the Winnebago county board at its meeting yesterday afternoon. When this road is completed around Oshkosh, and if the Fond du Lac county board agrees to accept a new route around the city of Fond du Lac, Highway 41 will not pass through a single large city from Milwaukee to Green Bay. The travel time through Winnebago county on the proposed new highway will be reduced by 14 minutes and 15 seconds. It has been estimated that when the Winnebago county unit of Highway 41 is completed that the travel time from Green Bay through Winnebago county will be reduced by nearly 30 minutes over the time required to travel the old 41.

Report Shows Highway Police Have a Thousand Things to Do

Post Crescent Oshkosh Bureau

Oshkosh—That duties of a county highway officer are not always monotonous and stern and that Winnebago county highway police are quite the gentleman and friends in need in addition to being regular efficient law enforcement men is shown in a report presented to the Winnebago county board by Captain Irving Stulp of the county force.

A glance at the report shows that the highway police must be good Samaritans, knights without armor, mediators in farm strife, garage men, fire-fighters, photographers and a host of other characters in their daily duties.

The complete annual report lists a total of 1,004 individual types of investigations made by the officers since Jan. 1st of this year.

The greatest number in any one class of investigations was 229 and this total was the number of driving license tests tutored by the gentlemen. Second on the list of investigations is the number of auto accidents investigated. This total in that same period of time is 142.

Help Injured Cows

Other investigations, not numerous in duplication but numerous in variety included the following: The county officers pushed stalled cars, investigated the whereabouts of a missing boy, aided in farm fires, gave gasoline to stalled cars, rescued a missing woman, took injured cows off highway, helped fix flat tires, removed broken beer bottles from the highway, put out fire in car and escorted Y M C A. girls to camp.

Other investigations included escorting cars bearing money from

Rockets Prepare For Opening Cage Tilt at Kaukauna

Meet Kaws Friday Night And Shorewood Saturday

Neenah—With only three practice sessions remaining before the Neenah High school basketball squad opens its season against Kaukauna in a Northeastern Wisconsin conference game Friday evening at Kaukauna, Coach Ole Jorgensen is drilling his cagers hard to get them in condition.

After meeting the Kaws Friday night, the Rockets will return to Neenah to clash with a quintet from Shorewood High school, Milwaukee, Saturday night.

With five lettersmen on the first squad, the Rockets will have an experienced team on the floor this season, and although lack of practice will show in the opening games the Rockets should hold their own against Shorewood's strength.

Jorgensen is grooming 10 players for the first trip. The first squad is composed of Captain Dan Schmidt, Warren Kettering, Kenneth LaBumbar, Harold Hackstock and Harlan Hesselman. The others are Leo Peterson, Al Muench, Kenneth Krueger, Buxton Kettering and Donald Erdman.

Preliminary Game

The coach, however, hasn't decided definitely on the starting cast. Kettering who received a leg injury in the Neenah-Menasha football game may not be able to start.

Ivan Williams, assistant cage coach, will take his second team to Kaukauna to play the Kaws' reserves Friday. The preliminary game for the Shorewood conflict will show the fresh five, coached by Clarence Brendenick, meeting Williams' squad.

Members of the second team are Edward Winkelman, Tom Christoferson, Jerome Hass, Clifford Bunker, Richard Miller, Douglas Hauke, Ray Smith, Roy Douglas, Harold Dieckhoff, Robert Hackstock and Eugene Calloway.

There have been three changes in the basketball schedule. The Rockets will meet West DePere here Dec. 10 instead of Dec. 9. The all-athletic banquet will be held on the latter day. The Menasha game has been shifted to Tuesday, Feb. 14 instead of March 3, and the Appleton game will be Dec. 15.

Plans Completed For Sport Banquet

Stuhldreher to be Speaker At Neenah High School Affair

Neenah—Final arrangements for the Neenah High school all-athletic banquet at which Harry Stuhldreher, Wisconsin university athletic director and head football coach, will be guest speaker, have been completed, according to Principal John H. Holzman. The banquet will be Friday evening, Dec. 9, at the Valley Inn.

Holzman reported that there will be a capacity crowd of 200 at the banquet. Reservations may be made with the principal. Tickets have been reduced to cost for students in order that more youngsters may attend.

Members of Coach Stuhldreher's football team have been invited to attend the banquet. S. F. Shattuck, vice president of the Kimberly-Clark corporation, will be the toastmaster, and Norton J. Williams, president of the board of education, also will talk.

Besides giving a talk, it also is likely that the Wisconsin coach will show moving pictures of the Wisconsin-Northwestern grid game. Coach George Christoph will award letters to members of this season's football squad. There also will be group singing.

He recommended that the boys write plainly, state their age and give several names for references when filling an application blank. If a personal interview is granted he should not be cocky or flippancy, but respectful and serious," Mr. Owen declared.

After one receives a position in a plant, he owes the company something, the speaker said. He must be respectable, cooperative and retain a good credit rating.

HYPNOTISM

II—"PUTTING TO SLEEP"

The word "hypnotism" came from the Greek language, and means "putting to sleep." A person really does go into a kind of sleep when he is hypnotized. It is hard, or impossible, to awaken him from it unless you know the secret.

Braid's first hypnotism. (Picture based on an old print.)

Mesmer did not use the name "hypnotism," but he was a real pioneer. When he "magnetized" or "mesmerized" people, he did just about the same thing to them as is done when people are hypnotized. He did not need the magnets or wands he used. His power came because he was able to make people think in certain ways while he was treating them, not because of so-called "animal magnetism."

An English surgeon, Dr. James Braid, learned about Mesmer's work, and carried out tests of his own. In 1843 he published a book in which he said that the work of putting people into a nervous sleep should be called hypnotism.

Dr. Braid and several other doctors in Great Britain and France hypnotized hundreds of persons. It was found that hypnotism could be used to take pain away from operations. There are records of a large number of people, in those early days, who were put to sleep before surgeons worked with knife or saw, and who said afterward that they felt no pain.

The magnets and wands were gone, but hypnotism worked with-out them. Cases were reported of people being cured of illness through its help. Here are a few facts which have been learned about hypnotized persons.

The heart beat often rises during the sleep. The heart of one woman patient beat 100 times per minute, instead of her normal rate of 80.

A person may be able to read much smaller print when hypnotized. A French doctor reported a patient who read letters so small that 250 of them could be placed side by side in the space of one inch.

Some cases of small children made much sharper. One of Braid's patients was blindfolded, and was asked to tell the names of many persons in a room. By smelling a glove he was able to name the owner, but he could not do this when his nostrils were stopped up with cotton.

Dr. Braid believed that hypno-tism should be employed only by well-trained doctors. Since his day, it has been used by some doctors, but it also has been made a thing of the stage. People in the theater have been amused when a hypno-tized person has been made to bark like a dog or moo like a cow. That may seem "funny," but it is not a good way to use hypnotism.

Suggestions For Your Thanksgiving Dinner

Correspondent Is Ousted by Italy

Chicago Daily News Writer Ordered to Leave Immediately

Rome—(AP)—Frank Smothers, Rome correspondent of the Chicago Daily News, was ordered to leave Italy today because of the "unfriendly" tone of his dispatches.

Guido Rocco, director of the foreign press section of the ministry of popular culture, in informing Smothers of his expulsion, cited particularly his dispatch on Nov. 16 on the Anglo-Italian accord.

Smothers was given to understand the order could not be modified because of the "generally unfriendly tone" of his articles in the past.

The United States embassy made representations at the Italian foreign office in Smothers' behalf, but was informed the decision was irrevocable.

He was given until the end of the month to leave of his own volition.

Smothers became the Daily News' correspondent in Rome 14 months ago, having been transferred from the far east. He is the seventh resident correspondent compelled to leave Italy in a little more than a year. The last was Paul Cremona, correspondent of the Christian Science Monitor and a British subject.

The others were Swiss, German, Austrian, Polish and Hungarian.

Unification of Soviet Propaganda Foreseen

Moscow—(AP)—The unification of the Communist party's press section with the propaganda and agitation department to form a single bureau of propaganda and agitation was announced today.

Some foreign observers expected greater emphasis henceforth on internationalism to result from the appointment of Andrei Alexandrovich Zhdanov, chairman of the foreign affairs commission of the supreme soviet, to head the new department.

Pilot's Wife Sues Airlines Company

Charges Firm Is Responsible for Death of Her Husband

Spokane, Wash.—(AP)—A jury was sworn in superior court here today for what attorneys said was the nation's first damage suit in which an airline is accused of responsibility for a pilot's death through negligence.

The $75,000 suit was filed against Northwest Airlines by Mrs. Lorna Livermore, widow of pilot Joe Livermore who was killed the night of Dec. 18, 1936. Co-pilot Arthur A. Haid died with him in the crash of their mail-carrying transport against a ridge near Kellogg, Idaho.

Attorney Paul Graves told the jury the plaintiff would seek to prove Livermore and his co-pilot were dispatched to fly at night over dangerous mountain terrain from Missoula, Mont., to Spokane by instruments, under orders of company officials and against the pilot's judgment.

SKUNKS GO VISITING

Northeastland, Pa.—(AP)—Skunks in this town are getting real bold—or friendly. Mrs. William Tatro looked up from her morning chores and saw a mother skunk and two young ones ambling through her kitchen door. She shoos them out—with care.

NAME TWO CAPTAINS

Superior—(AP)—The Superior State Teachers college football team elected Frank Cirilli, left end from Hurley, and Lawrence Rich, halfback from Spooner, as co-captains for next year.

Securities Firm in Appeal to Commission

Madison—(AP)—The securities division of the banking commission today took under advisement an appeal for a rehearing asked by the Seidl Bros. investment firm, Milwaukee. The commission revoked the firm's license to sell securities last month.

The commission claimed officers of the company, Larry E. and Frank R. Seidl, withheld information when they applied for and received a license last February. The commission contended they did not reveal certain transactions made while they were associated with the General Securities, Inc., defunct Milwaukee investment company.

Winfred Zabel, Milwaukee attorney, represented the Seidls and asked that the revocation be set aside. Leo Vaudreuil, deputy attorney general, opposed rescinding the order.

$176,900 Budget For Highways Is Proposed for 1939

A budget of $176,900 for the year 1939 was submitted to the county board of supervisors by Frank R. Appleton, highway commissioner, in his annual report made last week. The board has adjourned until after deer season and will take up the matter of budget appropriations when it returns.

The highway budget for Outagamie county prepared by Appleton contains the following proposed expenditures: administration, $10,000; maintenance of county trunk system, $50,000; compensation insurance on highway employees, $15,000; unemployment compensation for employees, $2,500; oiling portions of county trunk system, $40,000; refunding the advance for the county's share of the Vande Wittering bridge, $900.

Proposed bridge in the town of Cicero, $4,000; county's share in maintenance of Kimberly bridge, $1,500; emergency bridge fund, $5,000; motorcycle policemen, $15,000; snow removal on county trunk system, $25,000; maintenance and construction of garages in districts, $8,000.

The funds available on Nov. 1, 1937, amounted to $94,568.15, Appleton reported. Revenues during the year amounted to $610,167.68, making available a total of $704,735.83. Disbursements during the year amounted to $642,037.27 leaving a differential of $62,698.56.

Contracts during the year were awarded for the paving of Highway 41 from McCarty's crossing northeast for about a mile and a half, for the construction of the Shiocton bridge, for the paving of approaches to the bridge, and for the construction of two new overhead bridges north of the city, one over the North Western railway and the other over the Soo line.

The following expenditures were authorized by the state highway commission and the work done by county crews: Scarifying and placing a bituminous mat on Highway 156, from the junction of Highway 47 to the Shawano county line, $4,400; replacing narrow bridge on Highway 47, north of Black Creek, $500; widening Mill street curve on Highway 45 in New London, $1,487.95; repairing concrete pavements on state trunk system, $4,000; placing skin mat on shoulders on new Highway 41, $5,900; placing bituminous mat on Highway 96 between McCarty's crossing and Wrights town, $1,056; repair work on underpass on Highway 54 in Black Creek, $377.42.

Movie Land Its People and Products

Joe E. Brown makes romantic advances to Beverly Roberts in "Flirting With Fate," a comedy with Leo Carrillo, Wynne Gibson and Steffi Duna.

By Jimmie Fidler

Hollywood—Whenever a Filmville commentator feels like sobbing, he finds a ready-made subject in the fate of the great stars who have hit the skids and tumbled into oblivion. And usually, just to make the sob more effective, he adds a note of censure by damning the producers who gave the one-time biggies the push that started their declines.

Fidler, the producer himself—how many of the men who made motion pictures universal entertainment are still on top of the heap?

Oliver Morosco died on relief. D. W. Griffith, the greatest star-maker of them all, can't get a job in the industry and has been fighting poverty for years. Mack Sennett, the comedy king, has been one of Hollywood's living ghosts for half a decade. Al Christy is out; H. M. Horkheimer, one of the biggest of the pioneers, now has no connection with show-business; Jesse L. Lasky is a has-been; Wm. Horsley's only relic of his movie czarism is a bit of Hollywood real estate; Wm. Fox and Carl Laemmle, the only ones who got out with great wealth, are almost forgotten; Col. Seelig is completely divorced from Hollywood and J. Stuart Blackton, once head of the great Vitaphone company, is out and in need.

No one is "to blame" for those reversals of fortune. The picture industry, more than any other, reflects changes in public taste—and taste, in every country in the world, has been rapidly changing since the World war. Looking at the mortality list, it's small wonder that everyone in Hollywood believes in "getting while the getting's good."

IDOL CHATTER: Luise Rainer's smile reminds me of October winds and chapped lips. Cited for the red badge of courage: Gene Raymond—currently daring disaster by selecting the "Most typical" co-ed from photos sent by the gals of Illinois University. Odd how all that amuse me: one actor calling another "a ham." Wonder is Martha Raye was born with a silver shovel in her mouth? Carole Lombard's idle-hour slouch reminds me of a half-melted wax doll. Come to think of it, I never have seen Zasu Pitts in a night club. Studies in self-depreciation: Arleen Whelan—convinced that her figure can't stand exposition in a swim-suit. Bette Davis seldom gets mad, but when she does—oh, my goodness!!!!

Michael Romanoff, "prince of imposters, may not be royal in life, but he fully intends to wear a regal dignity in death. He has provided his will, certainly one of the most unusual ever drawn up in Hollywood, that his remains shall lie in state and that all his possessions shall be sold. With the proceeds a trust is to be established for the perpetual maintenance of a knoll overlooking the Rappahannock and Potomac rivers in Kings county, Virginia, where he is to be buried. There, too, a certain few of "Prince Mike's" friends may be buried if they wish. The list of those eligible is already in the hands of Mike's lawyer.

Years ago, in Rochester, Brian Donlevy struck up a stammering friendship with a young Swiss architect named Philip Mertz. Mr. Mertz spoke little English; Brian spoke no German but, by enthusiastic arm-waving and facial grimaces, they managed to understand one another. After Mertz had returned to Switzerland, they carried on a regular correspondence—each one laboriously trying to express their thoughts in the other's language. But Mr. Mertz, just now, is madder than a wet hen. In Geneva, he saw one of Brian's pictures—with German dialogue dubbed in. And he wants to know, with plenty of donners and teufels, why Brian has pretended to speak no German all these years.

I think I've found the supreme irony. At Republic today, the girl who takes care of the studio fan mail called me aside to show me a letter received this morning. It was from Tom Mix—sent in care of Gene Autry! (Copyright, 1938) end of the plain, facing the reviewing stand where the band played lugubriously on Sunday afternoons. The outlook was lovely, but the house itself was uncomprehensibly ugly. Built of red brick, with a broad veranda across the front and sides. Inside, the rooms were too large, the ceiling too high, the windows big and ugly; and within the bare white walls were crowded the motley furnishings peculiar to army houses. There were plain, heavy mahogany pieces, tables of carved ebony, black-and-white peacock chairs from the tropics side by side with deep and well-worn easy chairs. There were brass trays and countless little brass boxes, ugly long bolo knives and a row of ivory elephants parading across the golden oak mantel of the living room. The Chinese rugs were magnificent and overlapped each other on every available inch of floor space.

THE ARMY POST MURDERS

By Virginia Hanson

But in spite of its startling juxtapositions, its candid violation of the laws and good decoration, that interior had its own distinctive charm—a charm that partook of the perfume of spices and myrrh, of the flavor of an unfamiliar world. Within those walls there was sanctuary from the humdrum.

Elizabeth led the way upstairs to a room I had occupied before. It was immaculate and cool, and trees murmured outside the open windows. The smell of green grass was good after the city stinkiness I had left behind.

"We'll have some cold lunch when you're ready," she said, pausing in the doorway. "I told Annie to wait, because I don't like to eat alone, and Father left for Omaha early this morning."

Somewhere a clock struck two as her measured steps retreated down the stairs. I made haste with a sketchy toilet. There had been no dinner on the train, as Elizabeth doubtless knew. It was like her to know.

In the big dusky dining room I lunched hungrily, cheered on by middle-aged Annie, a fiery little daughter of Erin whose friendly chatter was interrupted only by the swinging door into the kitchen.

Dorothy Kotkosky, children's librarian, explained the card catalog system and showed the children new books. Sister Mary Candida accompanied the children.
